Farm Family Picks Up Pieces After Tornado Levels Property

200 MPH Twister Winds Threaten Lives, Devastate Buildings

GENESEE (Potter Co.) — As the twister bore down on the farmhouse, Krystal and Justin Smoker knew that the best plan of action was to get down to the shelter of the basement.

But Justin, 16, couldn't muscle the basement door open because the force of the vacuum created by the storm was too strong. As he worked on it, his sister Krystal, 18, took refuge in a bathtub on the first floor.

When the tornado had finished ripping a path of destruction through the property, Justin and Krystal found themselves on the basement floor after all, along with the two family dogs.

The entire wood-frame farmhouse had been flattened.

The two youth had some scrapes, bruises, and scratches, but no serious injuries. One of the dogs was killed, but the other survived.

"God was definitely there watching out for my children," said their mother Judy Smoker, who was at work when the tornado hit around 4:30 in the afternoon of July 21.

"It's a miracle they were even alive."

Judy was aware a severe storm was moving through the area, but she didn't know about the tornado until after Krystal and Justin had climbed out of the basement and went to a neighbor's place to phone her.

"When she said our house was gone, I couldn't begin to fathom what had happened," Judy said. And it wasn't until the following morning that she learned about the destruction of the barn and silos.

Her husband Kevin had been out in the barn as the twister approached. He took shelter in the milkhouse — which turned out to be the only part of the original dairy barn that wasn't leveled.

It was another of "the many miracles" surrounding the events of that turbulent afternoon, said

This upright silo, along with another poured concrete silo, were toppled by the 200 mile-per-hour winds of a tornado that whipped through the Kevin and Judy Smoker farmstead July 21. The Smokers' farmhouse and dairy barn were also destroyed.

New York's Premier Ag Event, Empire Farm Days, Aug. 5-7

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. — Success in agriculture means knowing what works and what doesn't.

That's why Empire Farm Days (EFD) is at the center of the Northeast agriculture success story.

From Aug. 5-7, farmers, manufacturers, and policy makers meet, exchange ideas, and together plug into the excitement of agriculture in the Northeast. The 70th annual show is scheduled at the Rodman Lott and Son Farm in Seneca Falls, N.Y. The 300-plus acre site will become host for more than 600 exhibitors and 75,000 farmers from all over the U.S. and Canada.

EFD is a direct link to new farm technologies, equipment, ideas and the excitement of Northeast agriculture. For businesses, EFD means getting back to basics. It's a chance to show off products and services to key players in Northeast agriculture. It means sales, but it's much more than that.

Businesses come away with a clear picture of their market and who they are selling to. That's the essence of getting back to the basics of selling-knowing customers and their market first hand. At EFD, businesses aren't just selling to customers — they are part of the excitement of Northeast agriculture in this new market they are helping to create.

With more than 600 exhibitors, Empire Farm Days offers today's Northeast Farmer more than 3,000 brand names to look over. Exhibitors showcase the latest developments in technology and equipment to northeast agricultural professionals, face-to-face. Farmers can connect directly with the manufacturers and representatives for the thousands of agricultural products and services available to today's farmer. They can touch, see and examine the actual products and equipment.

No matter what type of agriculture you are involved in, EFD has the connections to "plug you into the future."

Demonstrations, Seminars And Presentations

Action is the name of the game at Empire Farm Days. Exhibitors pull out all the stops to show Northeast farmers what's new and innovative. Many exhibitors actually demonstrate their products and services right on their exhibitor lots and adjacent fields.

Tractor safety, skid steer dances, band saws, fence building, hay management, mixer wagons, combining, building construction, antique tractors, vegetable and fruit specialty equipment, livestock handling, crop and breed displays, dairy and livestock equipment, are just a

Business Takes Root At Nursery Trade Show

ANDY ANDREWS

FORT WASHINGTON (Montgomery Co.) — Where business takes root.

That was the theme of the annual Penn Allied Nursery Trade Show, Tuesday-Thursday this week at the Fort Washington Expo Center in Fort Washington.

And it's a lot of business, amounting to about $3.1 billion annually, noted Gregg Robertson, president of show coordinator Pennsylvania Landscape and Nursery Association, Harrisburg.

"It's the place where business gets done," said Robertson, commenting on the 12,000 people from the green industry — nursery managers, landscape contractors, and retail centers — who registered for the show.

Each year the show has been growing. This year, 1,100 exhibitors managed 650 exhibits.

PLNA has about 700 members. This trade show event complements an educational show during the wintertime in Grantville.

The varied exhibits, from nursery supplies to landscape and plant management materials, occupy about 225,000 square feet of floor space. (Bigger than the New Arena at Farm Show, which is about 175,000 square feet.)

The location makes the event a regional trade show for the Mid-Atlantic, Robertson noted.

Compared to Thursday, slaughter steers sold mostly steady. There was some firmness noted in the Monday run, especially on the lower Choice and high Select steers. The Tuesday run was relatively light, but did include a couple lots of reputation cattle which sold in the mid-80's. The Tuesday demand was only moderate when compared to the active Monday market when buyers were paying 80.00 dollars for them no matter what grade they fell under. The Holstein market was not tested Monday, however the Tuesday run trended about steady. The heifer run was very light, and a trend was not established. The nearby August live cattle contract at the Mercantile Exchange is trading at around 77.00, and for that matter live cattle contracts clear through April are at 77.00 or better; which is extremely feeder friendly. Although, farmer/feeders are having to lay out a pretty penny to put feeders back in, especially if they're using the heavier 700-900 pounders; with the feeder cattle futures in the 90.00 money through October. Slaughter cows sold 1.00 to 2.00 lower on one of the poorest quality runs of the season. However, bidding activity and buyer attention was high on very scarce higher quality offerings with a high selling individual up to 57.50. Slaughter bulls sold 1.00-2.00 lower on a light test. The two-day run included 274 steers, 33 heifers, 411 cows, 19 bulls, with 1 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1090-1470 lbs 82.00-85.50, mostly 82.00-84.50, few fancy singles 86.75-87.75. Choice 2-3 1050-1485 lbs 79.00-82.50, majority 79.00-81.00, several Charolais and Limi-crosses 81.00- 85.50. Select and low Choice 2-3 1120-1430 lbs 77.75-80.25, few high dressers as high as 83.00. Light test of Select 1-2 1060-1360 lbs 74.25-76.25.

Holstein Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-3 1195-1520 lbs 72.00-75.50. Choice 2-3 1125-1550 lbs 67.75-71.00. Select and low Choice 2-3 1125-1450 lbs 64.00-66.50.

Slaughter Heifers: Few Choice 2-3 1060-1225 lbs 75.75-79.50, Charolais- crosses 75.50-79.75. Choice 3-5 945-1140 lbs 70.50-74.75.

Slaughter Cows: Percent Lean, Weight, Bulk, Low Dressing. Premium White, 65-70, over 1600 lbs, few 51.75-54.00, 46.25-50.25 high yielding individual, 57.50. Breakers, 70-75, over 1400 lbs, few 46.25-51.50, 43.50-46.25. Boners, 75-80, over 1200 lbs, 42.00-47.75, 39.50-42.00. Lean (Hi-Yield), 85-90, over 1200 lbs, 41.75-44.50. Lean, 85-90, over 1000 lbs, 38.00-42.25, 35.00-38.50. Lean (Light-wgt), 85-90, over 750 lbs, 33.00-38.00, 30.00-34.00.

Slaughter Bulls: Yield Grade 1-2 985-1895 lbs 50.75-58.00, fancy individual 64.00, low dresser 46.00.

Calves: Compared to Thursday's graded sale, Veal calves sold steady to weak. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold mostly 20.00 higher, with instances of up to 30.00 higher on Graded Number 1 and 2 calves. While Graded Number 3 calves sold steady to 5.00 lower. Good demand and bidding activity was noticed on Graded Number 1 and 2 bull calves weighing over 85 lbs. Milder temperatures and reduced humidity in the area made for more attractive packages of graded calves. Demand was notably lighter for lower quality calves with the majority going directly to kill markets instead of sifting pens and barns. In meat market on Tuesday, Northeast special fed veal traded sharply higher, mostly 255.00-290.00, few lots at higher levels on very good demand and very light offerings. Holstein heifer calves sold steady to weak, with the majority of the demand noticed on Graded heifer calves weighing over 85 lbs. The PA Department of Ag graded 827 head of bulls and heifers for the graded sale, with an estimated 73 percent of the graded run going back on feed.

Veal Calves: Standard and Utility 60-115 lbs 15.00-30.00, weaker 5.00-12.00.

Returning to Feed: Graded Number One Holstein Bulls 120 lbs 142.00; 95-115 lbs 160.00-170.00; 85-90 lbs 102.00-112.00, package 80 lbs 60.00. Graded Number Two Holstein Bulls 90-115 lbs 132.00-151.00; 85-90 lbs 70.00-75.00; 75-85 lbs 15.00-20.00. Graded Number Three Holstein Bulls 110 lbs 40.00; 80-95 lbs 16.00- 30.00. Most lots of 40-60 weight pigs have a sliding value from the negotiated weight basis which is calculated on the actual average weight of the load plus or minus .30-.40 per pound. Some early weaned lots have a slide of 50-1.00 per pound. Early weaned pigs are under 19 days old. Estimated lean value is projected to use slaughter weights with normal confinement feeding conditions. Vaccination and health program values are not included but health status should be disclosed.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

AUGUST 4–10, 2003

COLORADO DAY, AUGUST 4

SECRETARY OF EVERYTHING ELSE

Herbert Hoover, born on August 10, 1874, had served in the Cabinet under both Harding and Coolidge, becoming known not only as Secretary of Commerce but also as "Assistant Secretary of Everything Else." A recognized hard-worker and religious Quaker, Hoover had distinguished himself by organizing worldwide efforts for hunger victims during World War I, when he served as the American Food Administrator. Unfortunately, he was only eight months into his own term of presidency when the stock market crashed. Thenceforth, he became known for the Hoovervilles (shanty towns), Hoover blankets (newspapers), and Hoover flags (empty pockets) that sprang up.

Older men declare war.

–Herbert Clark Hoover 31st U.S. president (1874–1964)

OPINION

Milk Imports Up 331 Percent Guess Where? From Canada

These figures just in from Ken Bailey (see his full report starting page A16 this week).

• The U.S. imported 7.3 million liters of milk and cream (1-6 percent butterfat) in all of 2002. But imports just through May of 2003 were 4.8 billion liters, up 331 percent relative to the same months a year ago. Guess where most of this liquid milk is coming from? Ninety-eight percent is from Canada.

• Most cheese that enters the U.S. is under a broad category called "cheese, except fresh." This is everything that isn't fresh, grated, processed, or "blue-vein." Most cheese is carefully regulated by the TRQ (tariff rate quota). During the first five months of 2003, we imported cheese in this category from 45 countries. The most surprising countries of origin were Columbia, Costa Rica, Cyprus, Egypt, El Salvador, Jamaica, Jordan, Nicaragua, Philippines, Russian Federation, Syria, and Turkey. "I'm sure it's all of the very highest quality," Bailey noted. Imports of food preparations (fat blends) were up 31.4 percent (over quota). Why? How could this happen?

• Chapter 4 MPC (milk protein concentrates) imports are up just 42 percent so far this year (18,620 metric tons). Imports from New Zealand alone are up 85 percent (14,717 metric tons in 2003). Imports from Poland, a very small player, are up 758 percent (472 metric tons in 2003).

• Chapter 35 MPC imports are up 137 percent so far this year to 4,474 metric tons. Imports are way up from Australia. In fact, they account for nearly half our import levels. So far this year we've seen MPC imports from interesting places such as Belarus, China, and Latvia.

Bailey noted we import a lot of casein from around the world. Total casein imports in 2002 were 57,519 metric tons. So far this year, we've imported 29,209 metric tons, up 30 percent from the same five months

To Put Ag Progress Days On Your Schedule

Ag Progress Days, Pennsylvania's largest outdoor agricultural exposition, will be held this year Aug. 19-21. This educational and fun event is a great opportunity for a family trip before school begins.

Sponsored by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, the event is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center in Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

Special exhibits, with the theme "Seeing the Forest for the Trees," will showcase research and educational programs to develop and maintain healthy tree species, promote better woodlot management, and support a vigorous forest products industry. Majors and careers in forest resources also will be highlighted.

"We strive to plan an event that reflects the diversity of the college's programs," said Bob Oberheim, Ag Progress Days manager. "Our themed exhibits, combined with many of the traditional activities that we offer each year, ensure that virtually anyone can find something of interest at Ag Progress Days."

More than 350 commercial exhibitors will display the latest goods and services. Interactive displays, guided tours, and workshops will show how research and educational programs are addressing important issues, safeguarding our food supply and the environment, and helping to improve the efficiency and profitability of agriculture and related industries.

Faculty and extension staff from the college will be on hand to answer questions and provide information on crops and soils; dairy, livestock, and equine production; conservation practices; integrated pest management; woodlot management; farm safety; and home gardening and lawn care.

Other activities planned for this year's event include a skid steer rodeo and several new tours, including a tour of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's new Animal Evaluation Laboratory, which recently was completed near the Ag Progress Days site. Field demonstrations will feature hay mowing, hay rakes and tedders, baling, bale handling, conservation tillage, and manure application to reduce odor and preserve residue cover.

Also planned are family living exhibits and demonstrations; a corn maze; cut flower beds and exhibits; storytelling; an equine program, including special American Quarter Horse Association exhibitions; live animal displays; a tree-climbing adventure; a museum of antique farm and home implements; and a wide variety of food booths.

Ag Progress Days hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 19, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Aug. 20, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 21. Admission and parking are free. For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll-free from July 14 to Aug. 21 or visit the Ag Progress Days Website at http://apd.cas.psu.edu.

To Consult A New Website For Beef Production Information

Beef producers can consult a new interactive Website developed by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences for help in scheduling routine management activities for their herds, guidance in keeping thorough records, timely business tips, and information about beef-related events.

The calendar is a joint effort of Penn State, Purdue University, and the University of Kentucky, developed from a print-version management calendar that is produced annually by the University of Kentucky. State advisory committees worked under the direction of a state coordinator to develop the calendar components appropriate for each specific location. Penn State beef specialist John Comerford served as coordinator for Pennsylvania.

By asking producers a series of questions about desired calving dates, breeding methods and weaning ages, the Website utilizes standard gestation periods to recommend a custom schedule for management of the beef herd. "We ask producers for information such as their name, state, and e-mail address so they can establish an account with password protection, which allows them to visit time after time and use their information confidentially," said Karen Vines, distance education coordinator in the dairy and animal science department.

"The calendar is being revised to include a feature that will allow us to send monthly e-mail reminders to users reminding them of the management activities, beef-related activities schedule, and their personal dates for that month," she said.

Long-term goals for future development of the Website include the addition of performance and quality assurance records. The site also may grow to assist producers in meeting the requirements of proposed COOL (Country of Origin Labeling) legislation. In the future, the interactive beef calendar also may serve as a reminder to producers to record treatment records and provide a convenient site for future reference and analysis of herd performance.

In light of recent action by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), NSIA, Inc., of Palmyra emphasizes the importance to all farmers and growers of keeping accurate and up-to-date records of pesticide purchases, storage locations and inventories, field applications, and worker protection notifications.

It has been reported that on June 3 the EPA Agency proposed its largest Worker Protection Safety misuse penalty in its history, as it issued administrative complaints against five Colorado growers. It argued that the growers had violated the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Acts (FIFRA) and the Worker Protection Standards (WPS). "The EPA appears to be prioritizing environmental penalities" said Marty Campfield, NSIA, Inc. president. "What was once a 'slap on the wrist' can now

WHEN EAGLES FLY

Background Scripture:
Obadiah.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 43:1-7.

I'll have to admit that, the first time I read Obadiah, I found little if anything suggestive for either teaching or preaching. But, upon closer examination and study, I discovered that there is some strong medicine here for Christians of the 21st century.

Of all Israel's neighbors, Edom easily won the prize as "the most hated." Lying southeast of Israel, it was founded by Esau, Jacob's twin brother. Instead of that link making for amity between the two nations, it seemed to spawn hostility and hatred.

The situation between Israel and Edom is analogous to the one between Israel and Palestine today — both caught in an endless cycle of hate and retaliation. Obadiah may be 2600 years old and ancient, but the situation is all too contemporary.

Obadiah was referring not only to their longstanding animosity, but a most recent occurrence when, in 587 B.C., Edom not only gloated over Israel's fall to Babylon, but acted as a Babylonian ally and then looted their defeated neighbors. Edom will suffer for being such a bad neighbor: "Though you soar aloft like the eagle, though your nest is set among the stars, thence I will bring you down, says the Lord." (v.4).

As You Have Done

This will happen because, contrary to what the Edomites believed, the Lord is God, not only of Israel, but of all nations. "For the day of the Lord is upon all nations. As you have done, it shall be done to you . . ." (v.15). As Israel paid dearly for its sins, so would Edom and all others. What goes around will eventually come around.

So what does this mean? For one thing, it reminds us that, contrary to what many Christians believe, we stand before God, not only as individuals, but as nations, too. Israel and Edom suffered, not only because of the sins of individuals, but because of the sins of both nations. Many of us were quick to hail what we perceived as God's judgment upon the nation of Iraq. Obadiah reminds us that God's judgment will fall upon us as well. And no one or no nation is quite so susceptible to the judgment of God than the one that believes that it has nothing for which to be judged.

Edom paid deeply for its perfidy. Sometime during the end of the sixth or beginning of the fifth century B.C., they were pushed from their homeland by Arab invaders who eventually founded the Nabataean kingdom, forcing the Edomites into the Negeb desert. In time, the Edomites became known as Idumaea. (Herod the Great, who was king of the Jews in the time of Jesus, was an Idumaean.)

The Moral Order

Alfred North Whitehead once wrote: "The fact of the instability of evil is the moral order of the world." Obadiah reminds us that this "moral order" is not some thing, but God himself.

We sometimes say that "history is on the side of . . ." this or that. The Lord is the God who rules history and it is he who opposes ruthless force and social injustice. When we are unbrotherly toward other nations, it is really God with whom we are dealing ultimately. No matter how smug we may be in our unrighteousness, God is not deceived and he is not disinterested.

Following the terrible tragedy of 9/11, several TV preachers suggested that this was God's judgment upon our nation. They were quickly censured. Yet, while I disagreed with their conclusions, I thought perhaps in their own way they were reminding us that our nation also stands under God's judgment — especially since we have held ourselves out to be a Christian nation.

To say that we may have deserved what happened is outrageous, but must we conclude that nothing in our society will attract God's negative judgment? Do love, peace, and justice reign in our land — or money and raw power?

As a boy, I loved Stephen Decatur's motto: "Our country! . . .may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong." Studying the scriptures, however, I have found that true patriotism is achieved when we give our first and full allegiance to God — and that means having the courage and faith to acknowledge when our country is wrong.

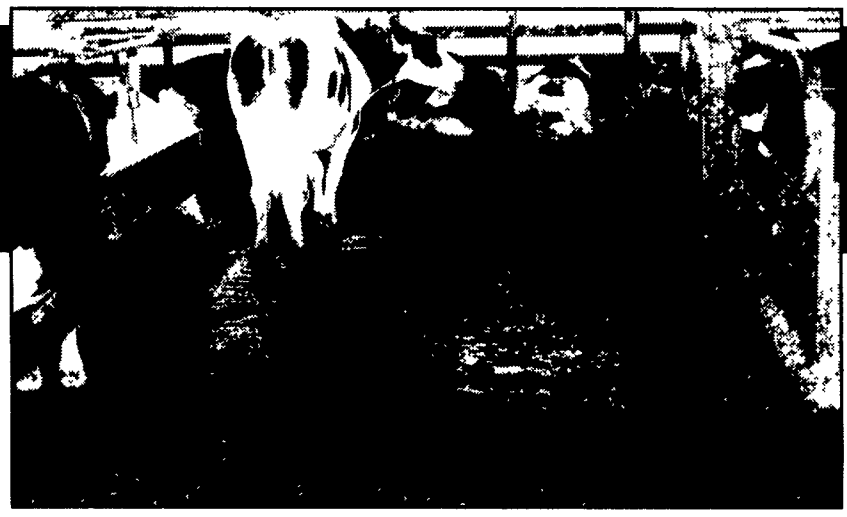
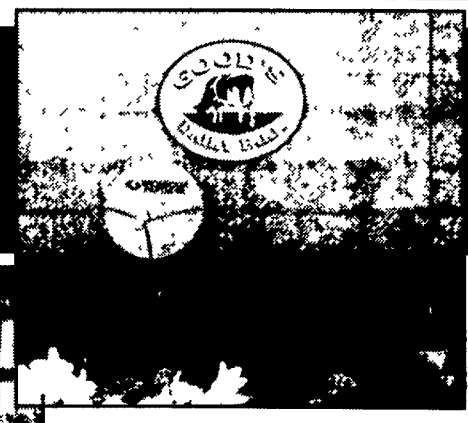
"WAFFLE SLAT" Syri-Con Corporation



"The biggest benefit is the labor savings."



"In my previous barn, I scraped two times a day; and I was tired of it, not to mention the danger to the cows if a cable snapped. I thought I would not be able to justify the additional cost until my builder suggested a design change which brought the cost down relatively close to the original design.

The biggest benefit to me is the labor savings. Two people can handle all the chores for our herd. I save money not only on labor but also on repairs.

The cows' hooves are healthier, and they show heat better because they are not afraid of slipping. During the five years with slats, I have not lost a single heifer from slipping. The cows stay much cleaner, even with my misting system for cooling them. The water has a place to escape."
- Raymond Good
Good's Dairy Farm

"My only regret is that I wish I had made the pit under the barn deeper."

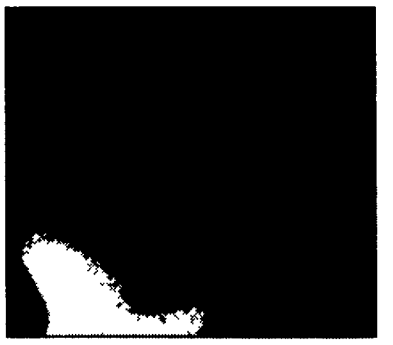
Cimarron SR ALFALFA

Top Forage Quality
Cimarron SR produces larger leaves than other alfalfa varieties. (See photo right.) And it holds its leaves better in the field and in the baling process. The result is a leafier hay with higher protein and TDN. Break open a bale of Cimarron SR hay, and you can see the difference.



High Yields - Long Stand Life
Cimarron SR is producing excellent yields in the Penn State trials. And unlike other alfalfa varieties Cimarron SR was bred on the East Coast, so it stands up well under the difficulties of Eastern conditions. You can count on Cimarron SR for long stand life and top productivity.

Sclerotinia Resistance
Sclerotinia crown rot is a significant problem for alfalfa growers on the East Coast. Cimarron SR provides the protection against sclerotinia that growers need.

Weevil Tolerance
Cimarron SR's unique alfalfa weevil tolerance reduces weevil damage by 50%. In a heavy infestation spraying can be cut in half. In lighter infestations, spraying can be avoided altogether

STRANGE AND INTERESTING FACTS REGARDING DAIRY TRADE: JANUARY-MAY 2003

Trade in milk and dairy products was up during the first five months of the year. In fact, accounting for just the protein in these imports, imports were up 21 percent relative to the same period a year ago. The figures below are for the months January through May 2003:

• The U.S. imported 7.3 million liters of milk and cream (1-6 percent butterfat) in all of 2002. Imports just through May of 2003 were 4.8 billion liters, up 331 percent relative to the same months a year ago. Guess where most of this liquid milk is coming from? Ninety-eight percent is from Canada.

• Most cheese that enters the U.S. is under a broad category called "cheese, except fresh." This is everything that isn't fresh, grated, processed, or "blue-vein." Most cheese is carefully regulated by the TRQ (tariff rate quota). During the first five months of 2003, we imported cheese in this category from 45 countries. The most surprising countries of origin were Columbia, Costa Rica, Cyprus, Egypt, El Salvador, Jamaica, Jordan, Nicaragua, Philippines, Russian Federation, Syria, and Turkey. I'm sure it's all of the very highest quality.

• Imports of food preparations (fat blends) were up 31.4 percent (over quota). This product is mainly anhydrous milk fat. Imports for the first five months of 2003 were 9,584 metric tons, compared to 17,855 metric tons for all of 2002. These imports are mainly from New Zealand, the United Kingdom, and Australia.

• Chapter 4 MPC (milk protein concentrates) imports are up just 42 percent so far this year (18,620 metric tons). Imports from New Zealand alone are up 85 percent (14,717 metric tons in 2003). Imports from Poland, a very small player, are up 758 percent (472 metric tons in 2003).

• Chapter 35 MPC imports are up 137 percent so far this year to 4,474 metric tons. Imports are way up from Australia. In fact, they account for nearly half our import levels. So far this year we've seen MPC imports from interesting places like Belarus, China, and Latvia.

We import a lot of casein from around the world. Total casein imports in 2002 were 57,519 metric tons. So far this year, we've imported 29,209 metric tons, up 30 percent from the same five months a year ago. Most of this increase has come from Australia (up 68 percent) and New Zealand (up 69 percent). Did you know that so far this year we've imported 3,854 metric tons of casein from India? We've also imported casein from 18 different countries including Belarus, China,

Heat Stress Lowers Milk Production
Eliminate Heat Stress with Evaporative Cooling

What is Evaporative Cooling?

When water evaporates, heat energy is converted into a different form, which lowers the temperature of the air or the object that the water was on. As water evaporates the temperature continues to drop until the air reaches the 100% saturated point. In the northeast U.S. there is typically a 16 degree F. cooling potential on an average 90 degree day. Since most evaporative pad systems are designed to be 75% efficient, that means that a 12 degree temperature drop could be expected. When temperatures reach 98 to 100 degrees, there is often a cooling potential of up to 24 degrees, resulting in an 18 degree drop in barn air temperatures. THE HOTTER IT IS, THE MORE COOLING YOU GET!

Evaporative Cooling for Dairy Tie-stall and Free Stall Barns

The use of evaporative cooling for livestock and poultry in the northeast United States has been gaining acceptance in recent years. The main reason being that producers now understand that during the hottest part of the day, the relative humidity is often very low, which allows for the effective use of evaporative cooling. Since many tie-stall dairy barns now use tunnel ventilation systems for hot weather, dairy farmers can further enhance their hot weather ventilation by adding evaporative cooling pads. These systems work hand-in-hand to increase the amount of heat removed from the cow due to the high air speeds. The cost of the cooling system is minimized when designing it for tunnel ventilation compared to a cross-flow ventilation system.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
July 30, 2003
Report Supplied by USDA

SPOT PRICES OF CLASS II CREAM, dollars per lb butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.6371-1.8936. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.6493-1.8814 mostly 1.7104-1.8081.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .8500-.9300. Class III, spot prices: 1.000-1.0500.

SPOTS SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This Week: In 0, Out 38; Last Week In 0, Out 51; Last Week In 49, Out 2. SOUTHEAST STATES: This Week: In 0, Out 0; Last Week In 0, Out 0; Last Week In 0, Out 0.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

Milk production is mostly steady throughout the region. Some small gains in output were reported where cooler temperatures eased the stress on cows. Overall, fluid milk supplies are tight. Class I demand is starting to show some improvement in the Southeast where a few schools are opening this week and next. The majority of schools will be opening the second week of August and bottlers are trying to line up milk supplies for those needs. For the first time since January, Florida handlers had to import milk this week.

In the Northeast, the weather has been rather mild and the milk flow is about steady. Bottled milk sales are just fair. Surplus milk volumes are much tighter in the South and slightly tighter in the Northeast. Manufacturing schedules are often lighter as most of Florida's milk needs were filled out of a Middle Atlantic source. A few operations expect to have a little more milk in the coming weeks due to the expiration of a fluid milk supply contract.

The condensed skim market remains unsettled. Class III prices are high and expected to jump based on prediction of the August Class III skim milk price. Most users of Class III wet solids are looking to NDM as a less expensive substitute. Sales of Class II condensed skim are steady.

The fluid cream market is very firm. Last week saw supplies go from a little long early to short of needs by mid-week. The very hot temperatures in California and other Western states "turned off" milk production, which all but halted cream availability. Where many loads of Western cream moved east early in July, almost none were shipped late last week and this week. Some supply plants cancelled their contracts to ship because they did not have enough milk/cream to supply their customers.

In the East, buyers were often shorted loads and had to adjust processing schedules accordingly. There was a lot of scrambling to find cream last week and little has changed so far this week. Spot prices are mixed, ranging from lower to higher. The CME average price for butter did increase last week, but multiples are steady to occasionally lower.

Ice cream production is seasonally heavy, but cream supply is becoming more of an issue. Cream cheese output is steady to lower. Reports indicate that some cream cheese producers are using frozen cream to supplement fluid supplies. Churning is rebounding slightly now that a churn that was down last week is back on line. However, excess cream volumes are tighter, which limits actual churning schedules.

PIT POWER

Farmers and composters - Here is a breakdown for compost and manure pits and manure piles! Pit Power is bacteria and bacteria feeders that break down solids in manure pits and septic tanks and breakdown compost faster.

Clean out your pit with ease, use Pit Power! One gallon of Pit Power per 10,000 to 20,000 gal. of pit volume Should be repeated approx 2 times a year! If aeration of the pit is possible, it will help the bacteria to grow and work faster to break down solids. Pit Power's purpose is to add life (bacteria) in the manure, which then is returned to the soil where a bacteria is working The smell of pit manure is not so strong. Pit Power is a nontoxic product - Life to Feed Life!

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
July 25, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending July 25 — Total Receipts: 597,200; last week 327,000; last year 453,000. Direct: 118,500; last week 111,000; last year 84,400. Video/Internet: 261,800; last week none; last year194,300. Auctions: 216,900, last week 216,000; last year 175,100. This weeks reported auction volume included 42 percent over 600 lbs and 40 percent heifers

Compared to last week, feeder and stocker cattle sold steady to 2.00 higher. The full advance was realized late in the week, after feedlots sold finished cattle 3.00-5.00 higher which sparked two-days of limit-up sessions on nearby CME Live Cattle contracts. The dog actually wagged his own tail this week as the cash market and fundamental factors sparked the rally in the futures pits. This friendly dog is a lot more welcome than the panting days of summer dog that usually plagues cattle markets as temperatures heat up. Good ole supply and demand came through this week as short-bought packers uncharacteristically raised bids early in the week and paid 76.00-78.00 on a live basis and 123.00-124.00 dressed. This provoked feedlots to swing the gates wide open and when the dust cleared a whopping 310,000 head were moved in the five major feeding areas by Friday.

Cattle feeders continue to pull cattle ahead and this was confirmed by last Fridays bullish cattle-on-feed report, as June marketings were quoted 8 percent over a year ago.

Aggressive marketing has resulted in empty pens that are just itching for some 700-900 lb yearling feeders. Supplies of these types are very limited and the sky seems to be the limit on prices for those that are available. Its not very often that late-summer heavy feeders cost ninety something. Cost-of-gains are bound to be low this fall with a projected record corn crop, but its hard to back fed cattle up more than 15.00 to the projected December finished market. There were 240,000 head of feeders offered on last weekend's Superior video, but the bulk of the supply was made up of calves for fall delivery. A large number of these calves were in the Northcentral Region where 5 weight price spreads were unusually wide from 93.75-114.50. The quality of these calves was outstanding and very similar, but buyers are becoming wary of remote ranches that may be 2.00 freight to the nearest pay phone. Demand was good for this week's light calf offerings, even in the Southeast, despite drying pastures and excess heat. Cattlemen of every level are enjoying their field of business and their not about to sit on the sidelines.

Tornado Levels Property

Don Hoover of Binkley & Hurst Bros. farm equipment. Hoover traveled to Potter County later in the week to provide an electrical generator for the Smokers.

All members of the Smoker family survived relatively unscathed.

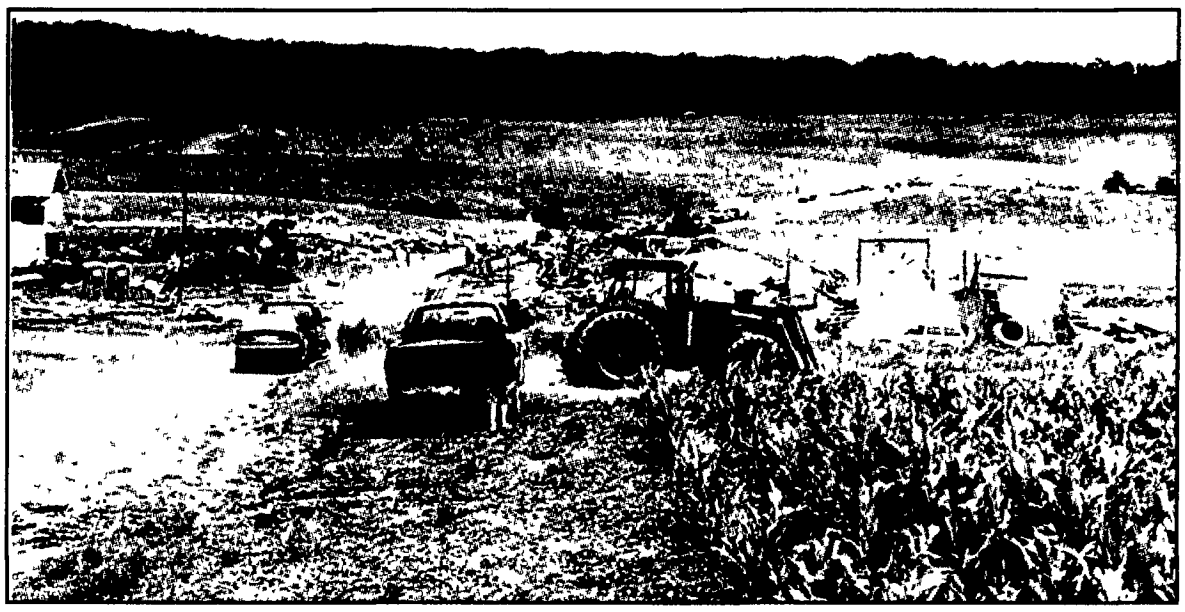
Kevin Smoker grew up on the dairy farm here, which he and Judy now own. The family feeds about 200 heifers for a nearby dairy producer. Four of the heifers were killed by the tornado, and several had to be sold because of injuries.

The remaining heifers are OK and are still on the farm, out on pasture.

As far as the property is concerned, cleanup and rebuilding are going to take "a long, long time," Judy Smoker said.

Besides the devastation of the house and barn, the twister also toppled two silos and took the family car for a ride.

According to Hoover, evidence shows the full-sized car was pitched about 200 feet, bounced off a silo, and thrown another 1,000 feet in the opposite direction.



Neighbors join in cleanup work at the Smoker farm.

On another farm near Ulysses, a tractor was lifted into a tree by the twister.

In addition, the Smoker's two-car garage was picked up and "thrown in a pile in the woods, about 800 feet away," Hoover said.

In the days following the disaster, hundreds of neighbors came to help with the cleanup, Hoover said.

Weather service officials estimated the tornado winds at 200 miles per hour. Debris from the buildings was found at least a half mile away, according to Hoover.

"As you looked out across the valley, you saw debris scattered as far as you could see," he said.

Judy Smoker said the family plans to rebuild the house, and possibly the heifer facilities as well.

People interested in helping with the cleanup should contact their nearest Mennonite Disaster Service representative.

A focus on the latest forage varieties will be part of the Sept. 13 issue of Foraging Around. Also scheduled: update on pastured poultry research at Penn State and the latest haymaking and grazing information from various field days.

Whary Raises 'Holly' To Be Lebanon Fair Champion

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — It took about three years, but membership in the Lebanon County 4-H Goat Club finally proved fruitful for Steve Whary, Lebanon.

The 12-year-old son of Stacey and Steve took grand champion goat honors at the Lebanon Area Fair Wednesday. Steve received $650 for the goat at the sale Wednesday evening.

Steve, Cedar Crest Middle School 6th grader, exhibited a 76-pound doe, a Blood Boer nicknamed "Holly" to his first champion at the Lebanon Area Fair.

"We cleaned her up and walked her every day," noted Steve. Each day involved 15 minutes of exercise for the doe.

Steve Dresch purchased the goat.

Reserve, exhibited by Alex Werner, was purchased for $275 by the First National Bank of Fredericksburg. Bank representatives were Martin Daubert and Wilmer Stoner.

Alex, 17, is the son of Sue and Jeff Werner, Jonestown. A senior at the Northern Lebanon High School, Alex was champion at the very first goat sale at Lebanon a few years ago. He has been in 4-H 10 years. Alex exhibited a 74-pound Blood Boer wether nicknamed "Tornado."

Alex also won grand champion FFA meat pen of rabbits and was champion rabbit showman. Alex plans to exhibit rabbits at the Farm Show.

Eric Bischof, assistant general manager of the Philadelphia Yard of Unilock, based in Brewster, N.Y., exhibited a Gold Award for best of show, multiple booths, in the hard goods category. Territory manager Frank Hammer accompanied him.

The company displayed Slope Block Mark IV walls, a concrete product, and other items. It was their first gold award at the show.

Winning gold in the green goods category was Centerton Nursery, Bridgeton, N.J., for their funky display, "Hemerocallis Hangout." Big tall beer mugs on the counter above the stools for[illegible] the booth. The mugs con[illegible] and lots of Hemerocallis, or simple day lilies. Forty-eight mugs held 55 varieties of the bright flowers.

The company was given an award for most creative display in the green goods category. On hand was Bobby Blew, sales manager, Centerton Nursery.

Centerton used plywood and black paint to devise the bar scene, accompanied by a gleaming Harley-Davidson cycle. An online restaurant supply store provided the mugs and barstools. All the lilies are grown on the farm.

Delaware Valley Wholesale Florists won best of show using a space occupying eight booths. The Sewell, N.J. company, with 600 employees, provides a variety of exotic fresh flowers, evergreens, and other items for the retail green industry.

The display included fresh flower bouquets and displays with daisies, minicarnations, roses, snapdragons, and pompom buttons. Included were calla lilies, assorted botanical plants, pathos, kaloncha, and ivy.

Also included were colorful Christmas ornaments, silks, berries, fruits, decorative plants, clusterberries, and hard goods.

On hand was Bill Schimmel, Carol Moore, Raj Ravani, and Randy Schenauer of the company, and Frank Kauffman, sales manager with Teufel Holly Farms, Inc., Portland, Ore., with the Christmas tree material.

The display was designed by Keith Rossel, director of marketing services, and assembled by a group of about 20.

More information about the display is scheduled for the Aug. 30 issue of Lancaster Farming's Grower & Marketer section.

sampling of what is happening and available on each individual lot.

The real power and excitement of agriculture and a highlight of Empire Farm Days are the field equipment demonstrations. These action-packed demos give manufacturers a chance to show farmers firsthand how their equipment responds to actual field conditions and farmers get a chance to talk directly with the company representatives about the equipment while kicking the tires and evaluating the results. While you're in the Demonstration area check out USDA's cover crop demo or Cornell Cooperative Extension's Mortality Composting Project.

Recognizing the importance of the Northeast as one of the three major dairy regions in the nation, Empire Farm Days continues it's dairy emphasis and direction to provide dairy producers with the newest products and advance technology. Northeast Dairy Business magazine and Empire Farm Days will be hosting a series of Dairy Profit Seminars focused on the latest in management and profitability strategies from those who know the business. Horse owners will have more opportunities than ever at this year's Empire Farm Days.

The show will build on the popularity of last year's new information center dedicated to the equine industry. Equine Center #511 will feature educational and informational displays about and for the equine industry. In addition to the center, horse owners will see trailers, tractors, fencing, feed and other inputs necessary to maintain their equine business.

Vegetable farmers and fruit farmers will find an incredible storehouse of items for their business at Empire Farm Days. A special emphasis will be put on grape growers at the show this year. The Grape Center #903 will be a great place to stop, have a free sip of grape juice, and visit

DEP, Agriculture Issue Orders

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and Department of Agriculture have issued orders requiring Ironite Products Co. of Humboldt, Ariz., to cease marketing its products in Pennsylvania unless it submits within 60 days a co-product determination covering the company's use of mine waste in the manufacture of fertilizers or an application for a general permit for beneficial use.

"Ironite fertilizers, marketed under such names as Ironite 1-0-0 and Ironite Superferrite Pro Formula 1-0-0, are manufactured primarily from mine tailings, and they have been found to contain high levels of heavy metals, most notably arsenic and lead," said Nicholas DiPasquale, DEP deputy secretary for air, recycling, and radiation protection. "The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is considering regulating this so-called fertilizer as a hazardous waste. Several other states also have taken actions against Ironite Products Company."

"The Department of Agriculture has serious concerns over two fertilizer products manufactured by Ironite, as they do not meet the residual waste requirements of Act 97 of 2001," said Agriculture's Deputy Secretary for Regulatory Affairs Bill Wehry. "Under our fertilizer law, products containing residual waste must be in compliance with DEP regulations. We will not register any Ironite fertilizer products that are not in compliance with the applicable regulations."

Ironite is marketed nationally as a soil supplement and fertilizer for home, lawn and garden use. It is manufactured primarily from mine waste from the Iron King mine in Humboldt, Ariz. The Iron King mine operated as a silver and zinc mine from the mid-1800s until 1969. EPA is considering whether to add the 60-acre waste pile at the mine to its Superfund site list.

Farm health and safety associations come together at Empire Farm Days to provide farmers free health screenings and life saving demos. Farm family programs offer daily programs designed to help farm families meet today's farm lifestyles challenges, including skin cancer screenings.

USDA and the New York State DEC have tents filled with information and displays for Northeast farmers. Folks interested in the latest research, programs, and agricultural technologies should visit Cornell University's New York State CALS tent.

The Special Events Center will again host award-winning farmers and students as the Empire State Potato Growers Inc., American Agriculturist, and New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets team up to present an Environmental Stewardship Award. The ESPG annual scholarship will also be given out.

There is certainly power in the future, and EFD is privileged to be host to the New York State Future Farmers of America and New York 4-H Tractor Operators Contest. About 100 young students from across New York will compete on Thursday, Aug. 7 in a statewide contest. EFD will also be host to other FFA competitions.

Stop by the Seneca County Tourism booth in the Northeast Main tent booth for ideas on how to extend your stay in the scenic Finger Lakes Region. Don't miss the antique tractor parade each afternoon. The Finger Lakes Regional Airport makes flying a easy way to get to the show, complete with a free shuttle run by the New York Flying Farmers. Take advantage of the EFD's famous beef, pork, and chicken barbecues as well as its short-order food booths offering a quick drink, hot dog, hamburger, hot sausage, ice cream, and other snacks. By all means, use the trams to get back to your car at the end of a long day of walking and talking.

The site is one of the easiest to find. It is located just south of the village on Rt. 414. Visitors traveling the New York State Thruway should use either Exit 42-Geneva or Exit 41-Waterloo and Seneca Falls. Once off the New York

Rodman Lott And Son Farms Host 2003 EFD

From Aug. 5-7, the Rodman Lott and Son Farms will host more than 75,000 farmers at their family farm; no small feat for a family that farms more than 4,300 acres. But for the 16th year they will host the Empire State Potato Growers' Empire Farm Days.

In 2003 more than 600 exhibitors will participate in Empire farm Days representing more than 3,000 companies. Empire Farm Days provides farmers with a chance to see the latest advances in Northeast agriculture in a relaxing atmosphere.

One of the biggest assets Seneca County and the Northeast agricultural community has is the Lott family and its business. Ralph Lott, his wife Shirley, and their children Nicole, Rodman, and Benjamin are the owners and operators of the Rodman Lott and Son Farms. Continuing with the tradition started by his parents, Ralph and Shirley became sole operators upon Rodman's "retirement" a few years ago. However, both Rodman & his wife Ellen are still active and involved in the farm operation.

The family history of farming began when Rodman and Ellen Lott set up a crop operation in Pennsylvania from 1954-1968. In 1960 they also operated a 400-acre soybean operation in Delaware. In 1968 they moved to the panhandle of Florida and raised peanuts, beef cattle, and pigs. Twelve years later the Lotts found themselves settled in Seneca Falls. Rodman and Ellen have four grown children: Ralph, Ginny, Mark, and Lisie.

EFD Rich In History

As far back as 1931 there has been an agricultural show sponsored by the Empire State Potato Growers, Inc. which was hosted by New York State farmers and was committed to bringing to farmers in the Northeast the newest techniques and equipment available to agriculture.

Since then, this annual event has undergone many changes including name, location and size, but its sponsor and purpose have remained constant. It brings the farmer and agribusiness communities together, all in one place, all at one time, at a high quality agricultural trade show. Today Empire Farm Days has grown to be the largest, outdoor, three-day trade show in the Northeast, with more than 600 exhibitors.

The event originated as Potato Field Days in 1931. In 1964 the show was called the Potato Field Day and Farm Materials Exhibition and was hosted by Humphreys Farm, Hartford; 1965 co-hosts McCormick Farms and William Gozelski, Gainsville; 1966 co-hosts Russell Mathews and Monroe County Department of Parks, Mendon.

In 1967 the show had grown to such a magnitude that another name change was required to reflect the scope of the event. Empire Farm Days was born. Since then following farms have hosted the annual event: 1967 Lucian Hills; 1968 co-hosts Smith, Coulter, Lincoln Knolls and Harold Rice, Canastota; 1969 Selden Farm, Greigsville; 1970 King Brothers, Layfayette; 1971 John P. Halpin and Sons, Avon; 1972-73 NYS College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, Dryden; 1974-75 Neenan Brothers, Holcomb; 1976-77 John P. Halpin and Sons, Seneca Castle; 1978-80 N. Palladino and Son, Pompey; 1981-82 NYS College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, Dryden; 1983-85 Brock Acres, Holcomb; 1986-87 N. Palladino and Sons, Pompey and 1988-Present Rodman Lott and Son Farms, Seneca Falls.

Pa. Couple Honored With Young Jersey Breeder Award

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Joe and Melinda Vanderfeltz, Rushville, were recently named by the American Jersey Cattle Association (AJCA) as recipients of its Young Jersey Breeder Award. They were recognized for their accomplishments on June 27, during the annual meeting of the AJCA and National All-Jersey Inc. (NAJ) in Columbus, Ohio.

The Vanderfeltzes have been involved in the dairy industry since their youth. The steps to full ownership of Vanderfeltz Jerseys have been small but sure. Joe grew up on a registered Holstein farm in Jefferson City, Mo., and Melinda on a registered Jersey farm in Rushville. In 1996, they joined Melinda's parents in partnership of the Jersey herd, but still maintained full-time employment off the farm. In 1999, Melinda's father passed away and they bought out the partnership and took over full-time management of the dairy herd.

The 80-cow Vanderfeltz herd ended 2002 with a rolling herd average of 16,203 lbs. milk, 764 lbs. fat and 580 lbs. protein. The most recent type appraisal ended with 18 Excellent and 48 Very Good cows.

Joe and Melinda are actively involved in a variety of dairy organizations, including the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club. In 2002, they were named recipients of the Pennsylvania Young Jersey Breeder Award.

U.S. Rep Holden Visits Lebanon Fair

NICKI LEFEVER
Special Correspondent

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.)— Allyson Balmer enjoyed showing U.S. Congressman Tim Holden her calves.

"My mom says I am a good calf tender," the 7-year-old said.

The Lebanon County Farm Bureau hosted a tour of the Lebanon County Fairgrounds and The Balmer Farm, Lebanon, for U.S. Rep. Tim Holden and state Rep. Pete Zug. The goal was to get to know local faces and build relationships with the Ag community according to Greg Hostetter, vice president of the bureau.

Holden, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, and U.S. Rep. for the Pa. 17th District (Schuylkill, Lebanon, Dauphin and parts of Berks and Perry Counties) has been a U.S. Rep. for 13 years, but after reapportionment earlier this year, picked up Lebanon County.

"I wanted to visit farms in the new part of my district during recess to talk about my work in Congress," he said.

Congress passed the largest farm bill in history, $73.5 billion

Senator Specter To Meet With Area Dairy Farmers

MESHOPPEN (Wyoming Co.) — Senator Arlen Specter (R-PA) will meet twice in early August with area dairy farmers.

Arden Tewksbury, manager of Pro Ag, reported the first meeting will take place at the Milan and Arvin Hibbard farm in Dimmock (Rt. 29, Susquehanna County) on Thursday, Aug. 7, at 5 p.m.

The second meeting will be Friday, Aug. 8, at the Tioga County Fairgrounds, Whitneyville. The fairgrounds are just off Rt. 6, approximately halfway between Mansfield and Wellsboro (Tioga County). Senator Specter will meet with dairy farmers in the main tent at 2:15 p.m.

Dennis Boyanowski, president of Pro Ag said, "it is very important that dairy farmers attend one of these meetings. The meetings are wide open, and we would like to see agribusiness people, and certainly consumers, to attend the sessions."

Specter's offices in Scranton and Coudersport are coordinating the meetings.

"Senator Specter has always been a supporter of our dairy farmers and is currently drafting a dairy bill to price milk based on the dairy farmer's cost of production. Specter is also supporting the efforts to establish dairy compacts in various sections of the country," Tewksbury said.

On Aug. 8, Dairy Days will be celebrated at the Tioga County Fairgrounds.

Pro Ag can be reached at (570) 833-5776.

last year. With recent tax cuts, $6 billion must be eliminated from the bill. Many farmers are concerned the cuts will affect them.

Holden said there have been negotiations in session and as the only northeast Rep. on the committee, he hopes there will be shared sacrifices.

"I hope to form a coalition with another region," Holden said.

He assured the farmers he will do his best to make sure they don't suffer, but he has no idea where the money will come from. A decision will be made by Sept. 30.

According to county farm bureau president Dale Heagy, they chose the Balmer Farm because it is close to the fairgrounds and Balmer serves on the county board.

Bryan and Tammy Balmer and their three children, Mitchell, 9, Allyson, 7, and Trenton, 1, escorted Holden, Zugg and several local farmers around their 115 acre, 90 cow dairy farm they rent from Robert Kreider. Holden entertained questions about his work in Congress and became acquainted with local farmers and their concerns.

"I have been on the committee for 11 years, but I'm definitely not an expert," Holden said. "I am here to learn as much as possible."

50 YEARS OF QUALITY

Capitol Celebrates National Ice Cream Month

WASHINGTON, D.C. — What hits the spot on a warm summer day? Why ice cream of course!

House Agriculture Committee Chair Congressman Bob Goodlatte, took that to the extreme recently serving up a giant ice cream sundae on the front lawn of the Capitol building.

In honor of National Ice Cream Month, dairy princesses from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Virginia built the tantalizing dessert using 27 gallons of vanilla bean ice cream donated by Turkey Hill.

Congressman Goodlatte did the honors of serving the official first scoop. Virginia Dairy Princess Sarah Leonard of Midland, Va. and Virginia Alternate Dairy Princess Ashley Shiflett from Fort Defiance, Va. helped the Congressman scoop sundaes for more than 500 passersby and Capitol Hill staff members.

In addition to helping serve sundaes, Pennsylvania Royalty Rachel Kilgore, Rachel Ebert, and Ashley Chapman met with Representatives Todd Platts, John Murtha, and Phil English to discuss issues affecting dairy farmers, including the MPC bill and Child Nutrition Act. Royalty also toured the Capitol.

New York Couple Receives Young Jersey Breeder Award

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Eric and Janet Partridge, East Durham, N.Y., were recently named by the American Jersey Cattle Association (AJCA) as recipients of its Young Jersey Breeder Award. They were recognized for their accomplishments during the recent annual meeting of the AJCA and National All-Jersey Inc. (NAJ) in Columbus, Ohio.

The Partridges are third-generation breeders of registered Jersey cattle and the fifth generation to raise a family on the 220-acre farm, Hedges Homestead. The herd is currently 48 registered Jerseys, with a rolling herd average of 16,207 pounds of milk, 712 pounds of fat, and 560 pounds of protein.

The Partridge philosophy is to breed cows that are functionally correct, with a balance of type, production and longevity. The present herd features eight Excellent and 29 Very Good cows. Over the past eight years, they have owned 18 Excellents, breeding 15 of them.

The Partridges are actively involved in many dairy organizations. Janet has been the secretary of the New York Jersey Cattle Club for the past four years and a member of the state sale committee in 1999 and 2001. Eric was vice-president of the Capital District Jersey Cattle Club for three years.

Horst Cow Takes Top Youth Honors At Lebanon Dairy Show

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — By now, Chanelle Horst can be sure she picked a big-time winner when she decided to buy Ju Vindale Jolt Apricot two years ago.

Last year, Horst led Apricot to the Holstein reserve championship at the Lebanon Fair and to the top of the Southeast Pennsylvania Championship Show. Apricot also won at the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Show in Harrisburg last September.

Horst and the 4-year-old cow marked another milestone this week when Apricot was named supreme youth champion dairy cow and Horst received the Dale Maulfair Jr. Memorial Award Tuesday at the Lebanon Fair.

"She shows real dairy (character), tremendous feet and legs, and has an absolutely gorgeous udder," judge David Castrogiovanni said of why he put Apricot at the top of show.

Not that Horst's EX-93 cow didn't have a tough field to compete with, including Dustin Horning's reserve grand champion, 4-year-old Turnpike View Counselor Breeze — a product of Horning's own breeding program.

Heath Spatz leads his 4-H champion Jersey in the ring during selection of the supreme champion.

'I've seen championship shows where the lineup wasn't any stronger than this 4-H lineup," Castrogiovanni said.

Horst, 17, will be a senior this fall at Elco High School. She is the daughter of Kirby and Sheryl Horst. The family milks about 50 high-quality cows at Lyncrest Farms near Newmanstown.

Chanelle purchased Apricot from Vince and Julia Wagner of Ju Vindale Farms. Apricot's dam is Ju Vindale Levi Ann and her sire is Second Look Jolt.

Dustin Horning, Stevens, handily led his animals to the other three champion slots in the 4-H Holstein Show. Beside exhibiting reserve grand champion, Horning also showed the junior champion and reserve junior champion, and had the best 4-H bred and owned cow.

Cows shown by Daniel Eberly and Kendra Trego, respectively, were named grand and reserve champions in FFA Holstein Show. Trego's cow was named best bred and owned of the FFA Show.

Five colored breed shows featured animals led by 4-H'ers and FFA'ers as well as open exhibitors.

Champion exhibitors include Daryl Maulfair of Jonestown, Ayrshire, open and FFA; David Maulfair of Jonestown, Ayrshire, 4-H; David Sattazahn of Womelsdorf, Brown Swiss, open; Harrison Miller of Harrisburg, Brown Swiss, 4-H; Jake Spatz of Lebanon, Brown Swiss, FFA; Joel Smith of Palmyra, Guernsey, open and 4-H; Andrew Dice of Fredericksburg, Jersey, open; Heath Spatz of Lebanon, Jersey, 4-H; Jake Spatz of Lebanon, Jersey, FFA; Promise-Lane Farm, Lineback, open; Royell Bashore of Annville, Lineback, 4-H; and John Donmoyer of Annville, Lineback, FFA.

Chad Powers judged the colored breed shows. He and Castrogiovanni decided together on the youth supreme dairy animal, which they chose out of a total of 11 champions from six breeds in the 4-H and FFA shows.

Here are results for the Holstein and colored breed shows:

NASS
Agriculture Counts

By Marc Tosiano
Pa. State Statistician

Editor's note: This is a monthly column from the Pennsylvania Ag Statistics Service (PASS), a field office of USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA). The Website is www.usda.gov/nass/.

SEE YOU AT AG PROGRESS DAYS

If you are attending Ag Progress Days at Penn State from Aug. 19-21, please stop by our booth. This year, we will be in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture building. We will be there all three days to provide information, discuss the use of NASS statistics, and personally thank you for helping with the recent Ag Census.

We will have information about agricultural production, our confidentiality pledge to all survey respondents, lesson plans for math and agriculture, Internet access, free mail and e-mail subscriptions, and more.

Access To All Our Statistics

For the latest details about acreage, forecasted yields, average prices, and crops in storage in Pennsylvania and around the nation, see www.usda.gov/nass/. Try the QuickSTATS button or see individual reports through the Search button where you can select the item of interest from the Commodity list. Please call us at (717) 787-3904 if you don't have access to the Internet.

For example, the acreage and yield information shown below is taken from the "Crop Production" report issued around the 10th of each month with the latest acreage and yield statistics. Another report of interest is the "Agricultural Prices" report issued near the end of each month.

2003 Acreage

In my May article, I discussed the June Acreage survey. The resulting "Acreage" report was issued June 30 with acreage for many crops across the nation.

In Pennsylvania, growers expect to harvest 900,000 acres of grain corn or 3 percent more than last year, 365,000 soybean acres or 4 percent more, 4,000 sorghum acres or 33 percent more, 1.9 million acres of dry hay or 5.5 percent more, 3,700 tobacco acres (Maryland- and Pennsylvania-type only) or 9 percent more, and 14,000 acres of potatoes, same as last year.

Keystone small grain acreage is expected to be 160,000 wheat acres or 14 percent less than last year, 140,000 acres of oats (unchanged from 2002) and 65,000 barley acres or 7 percent more.

One item of national interest is that all harvested tobacco acres is estimated at 413,710 acres, down 3 percent from both the 2002 crop and 1 percent below the March Intentions report. If realized, this would be the lowest harvested acreage since 1874.

Crop Forecasts

Last month I discussed NASS yield forecast statistics. Here are the latest results for the 2003 crop in Pennsylvania. All yield forecasts assume normal growing conditions for the remainder of the season.

As of July 1, Pennsylvania oat yield is expected to be 67 bushels, winter wheat 50 bushels, and barley 64 bushels per acre. After combining these yield forecasts with acreage statistics from the June Acreage Survey, Pennsylvania wheat production is expected to be 20 percent below 2002, oat production up 10 percent, and barley production down 6 percent from last year.

Based on July 1 conditions, the Pennsylvania peach crop is expected to be 70 million pounds, up 17 percent from last year. Tart cherry production in Pennsylvania is forecast to be 5 percent less than last year. However, at 218 million pounds, the national crop is about 3.5 times larger than 2002 but still 41 percent lower than 2001. These production swings are due mostly to the 2002 Michigan crop, which was devastated by unusual spring weather.

Sweet cherry production in Pennsylvania is expected to be 4 percent below last year.

Sweet corn for fresh market at 15,900 harvested acres is 1 above last year but 7 percent below 2001. Sweet corn processors have contracted 1,200 acres in 2003 compared to 1,400 acres last year. Snap bean processors have contracted 8,400 acres, 11 percent above last year's 7,600 acres.

Maple Syrup

Pennsylvania's 2003 maple syrup production came in at 48,000 gallons, down 13 percent from last year's 55,000 gallons and 30 percent below the 69,000 gallons in 2001. Over the past 12 years, only 3 years produced less syrup: 40,000 gallons in 1993, 43,000 in 1995, and 47,000 in 2000.

Sugarmakers set more taps this year, so the reduction in Pennsylvania syrup production was due to a lower yield per tap. There were 364,000 taps set during 2003, 8 percent more that the 337,000 taps set last year. Each tap averaged 0.132 gallons of syrup per tap, down from the 0.163 gallons last year and 0.192 gallons in 2001. Similar to last year, temperatures were generally too warm for good sap flow in Pennsylvania.

Nationally, maple syrup production in 2003 totaled 1.24 million gallons, 11 percent below above the 2002 crop. There were 6.62 million taps set this year compared to 6.75 million taps last year. Each taps averaged .187 gallons of syrup compared to .206 gallons last year.

In Pennsylvania, the value of the 2002 crop was $1.47 million, down from the $1.75 million in 2001. Nationally, the crop was valued at $38.4 million.

Complete maple statistics are found in the 36-page June issue of the "Crop Production" report release June 11, 2003. It can be found at www.usda.gov/nass/; use the Search button and select Maple Syrup from the Commodity list.

Farm Expenses

It is no surprise to you that farm input costs always seem to go up. A recent report gives the agricultural community facts to back up that claim.

In the Northeast, the overall average costs per farm increased by 1.7 percent from 2001 to 2002 while nationwide costs increased by 2 percent. The Northeast region includes the 11 states from Maryland to Maine.

The top five Northeastern expenses per farm for 2002 follow with the change from the previous year: 1) Feed costs essentially unchanged. 2) Farm services up 6 percent. 3) Labor up 4 percent. 4) Supplies and repairs up 3 percent. 5) Improvements and construction down 4 percent. See our Website for the complete report.

A special "thank you" is extended to those of you that completed our surveys. Thanks again. Your help is essential to keep an accurate "Agriculture Counts."

Wheat Disease May Reduce State's Harvest

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — As farmers across Pennsylvania begin to harvest their wheat crops, a specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences warns that the state's wheat is being threatened by a disease that could cause serious trouble for farmers already struggling after a difficult, wet spring.

Erick DeWolf, assistant professor of plant pathology, said the state has been hit hard by a disease called Fusarium head blight, or "scab," this season.

He said the disease is likely to cause serious losses by limiting crop yields and may also result in grain that is contaminated with mycotoxins, or poisons produced by fungi.

"Scab affects the heads and grain of the developing crop directly, resulting in moldy, shriveled kernels and severely reduced yields," DeWolf said. "In addition, the fungus that causes scab also can produce significant levels of mycotoxins in the diseased grain, and federal regulations prohibit that grain's use in flour."

"The severe disease observed in some fields this season is unusual in Pennsylvania," DeWolf said. "It can occur if rainy-humid weather prevails during the grain's latter, flowering growth stages when the wheat is most susceptible to infection — as it did during late May and June in the state."

De Wolf said little can be done to prevent the disease at this time, but growers can help reduce the impact of scab by harvesting wheat as quickly as possible to limit exposure to additional rains that could allow the disease to further damage the crop.

"Wheat producers may want to increase the airflow on combines," he said. "That will separate the lighter diseased kernels from healthy ones and limit the number of diseased kernels retained by the harvester. Producers also may want to consider harvesting grain at 20 percent moisture, then artificially drying and cleaning the grain to enhance quality this season.

U. S. Sheep and Lamb Numbers Down 4 Percent From Year Ago

WASHINGTON, D.C. — All sheep and lamb inventory in the United States on July 1, 2003, totaled 7.80 million head, 4 percent below July 1, 2002, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS).

- Breeding sheep inventory declined to 4.61 million head on July 1, 2003, was 4 percent below July 1, 2002.
- Market sheep and lambs (including newborn lambs) at 3.19 million head, were 4 percent below last July.

The breeding herd consists of 3.84 million ewes one year old and older, 175,000 rams one year old and older, and 600,000 replacement lambs (including newborn lambs).

Market lambs by weight groups, July 1, 2003: Under 65 lbs - 1,845,000 head; 65-84 lbs - 660,000 head; 85-15 lbs - 375,000 head; over 105 lbs - 250,000 head. Total: 3,130,000 head.

2003 Lamb Crop

The 2003 Lamb Crop in the United States is expected to total 4.13 million head, down 5 percent from the 2002 lamb crop of 4.36 million head.

Lambs born during January through June 2003 totaled 3.68 million head or 89 percent of the yearly total.

An additional 450,000 head are expected to be born during the period July through December 2003.

Eastern Shore Threshermen Showcase Frick Company's 150 Years Of History

FEDERALSBURG, Md. — The Eastern Shore Threshermen and Collectors Association, Inc. is conducting their 43rd annual Wheat Threshing, Steam, and Gas Engine Show this weekend at their showgrounds located on Rt. 313 between Denton and Federalsburg, Md. The show features free admission and free parking.

This year's show will have a special display of Frick equipment. 2003 marks the 150th anniversary of the Frick Company of Waynesboro.

George Frick started the company in 1853 near Ringgold, Md, building stream engines and horsepowers to power the many mills in the area as well as threshers under the patents of Peter Geiser.

Due to increasing business, he moved his shop to Waynesboro.

Along with steam engines, they also built sawmills, gas tractors, threshers, and other equipment, but they are best known for their industrial refrigeration. Now owned by York International, the Frick line of refrigeration equipment is still being built at the same location in Waynesboro that built steam engines since 1881.

This special display, concentrating on the steam and farm lines of Frick's business, has generated a lot of interest from Frick collectors. On display are 15 Frick steam engines as well as a selection of other Frick equipment. There will be a tent with a large collection of original Frick Company memorabilia from the mid-1800s until today. Many items have never been displayed in public before. Frick-York officials are expected to be on hand for this celebration.

Among the demonstrations will be wheat threshing, single sawing, sawing with a miniature and full size sawmills and rock crushing. There will be steam engines, antique tractors, gas engines, antique cars, and steam models in operation. A daily parade of all equipment will be conducted at 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and at 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Kids of all ages enjoy riding "Smokey Joe," a miniature steam train which is a replica of the Civil War era "General" locomotive.

Spectators won't want to miss our "Evolution of Threshing" which will demonstrate how threshing grain evolved from using the flail to the modern day combine. This will be conducted Saturday at 2 p.m.

On Friday evening, "Country Grass" will perform a free bluegrass music show and "The Country Troubadours" will perform traditional country music on Saturday evening. Sunday evening will feature "The Rescue Team" with gospel music at 5 p.m.

Exhibitors of antique tractors and steam engines can test their driving skills in the tractor games where they will be competing for trophies.

For more information call (410) 754-8422 or visit our Website at www.threshermen.org.

Maryland Commodity Classic A Success

CENTREVILLE, Md. — More than 300 farmers and guest gathered for the 2003 Maryland Commodity Classic, Thursday, July 24, at the Queen Anne's 4-H Park near Centreville.

"The purpose of this event is to inform our growers of what's coming down the road in relation to grain production and marketing," said Jamie Jamison, chairperson for the event.

According to Jamison, the collapse of the pier in Baltimore has had many producers hurting financially from the inability to market their crops for top prices. John Cassidy, vice president of Perdue Farms Inc., Grain and Oilseed Division, shared optimism towards the outcome of marketing this year's crop.

Cassidy said there will be a better price for soybeans this year as Perdue looks toward opening portable transfer stations in Central Maryland to help move the crop to the Perdue export facility at Chesapeake. "While the price will not rebound to what is was before the collapse of the pier, we are confident prices will be better than the last couple of years," he said.

Francis Childs, Manchester, Iowa, shared with the group his techniques for producing high-yielding corn. According to Childs, the key to high yields and environmental stewardship is spoon-feeding nitrogen and building a healthy soil for deep roots. Childs applies nitrogen in four doses, for a total of just over one pound per bushel of corn. By spoon feeding his corn, he said he does not apply a lot at one time leaving little in the soil to leach away.

Patrick McMillan was honored with the 2003 Man of the Year Award for the Maryland Grain Producers Association at the classic.

McMillan is the newly-named Maryland Department of Agriculture Assistant Secretary for Marketing, Animal Industries, and Consumer Services. However, his dedication to Maryland agriculture and grain production runs deep in his veins.

"Pat has provided tremendous support to the grain industry," said Mr. Jamison. "Pat has been a leader in the expansion of crop insurance programs in the state and we have him to thank specifically for bringing the Wheat Crop Revenue Coverage program to Maryland."

"He has supported our efforts to bring ethanol to Maryland and to work out a solution to the loss of the export pier in Baltimore," Mr. Jamison said. "Pat is one of those people who never says "no" but always offers to do what he can to help."

McMillan has served Maryland farmers at MDA since 1986 and has acted as the Department's representative to both the Maryland Grain Producers Association and the Maryland Soybean Board.

In his earlier job with the Department, as an Agricultural Marketing Specialist, he was instrumental in organizing producer-only farmers markets in many regions of the state and coordinating the Farmers' Market Nutrition Program in conjunction with the Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC). This program now serves more than 21,000 Maryland families while increasing the customer base and income of farmers' market producers.

McMillan is a native of Pulaski, Va. He studied horticulture and agricultural economics at Virginia Tech University. As a Peace Corps volunteer, he served as an orchard crop specialist for the Ministry of Agriculture in Montserrat, West Indies. McMillan, his wife, Linda, and children, Katie Jo and Ryland, are residents of Annapolis.

The Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board, as part of their checkoff program, awarded Robert Davis Jr. and Edward Robinson each a $2,500 scholarship during the classic.

"The checkoff program requires commitment. Results are not generated in a day, a week, or even a year — it is an ongoing process to expand markets and improve profitability. Too, education is a long-term investment. The youth we support today will ultimately return to our industry in the future to insure a safe, inexpensive food supply for our consumers," founding president of the Maryland Checkoff program, Bob Hutchinson said.

Davis attends Salisbury University and majoring in finance with a minor in agribusiness. He recently completed a project that measured the correlation between knowledge of ethanol and prices at which consumers would be willing to purchase E10, a 10 percent blend of ethanol with gasoline. Davis' interest in innovative, value-added agriculture products, such as E10, and their marketability will help create a brighter future for Maryland grain growers.

Robinson attends Delaware State University and majors in Animal and Poultry Science, his family farms in Caroling County. Robinson's interests lie in animal nutrition. After graduation, he hopes to begin work with a feed company formulating feedstuffs or with USDA testing feed samples. Since much of Maryland's grain is marketed directly to feed companies, Edward's studies will directly affect the profitability of our grain producers.

Specter, Santorum Announce Ag Funding For Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Senator Arlen Specter (R-PA), a senior member of the U.S. Senate Appropriations Committee, and U.S. Senator Rick Santorum (R-PA), Chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, recently announced federal funding for agriculture projects in Pennsylvania.

This funding comes as part of the FY04 Agriculture Appropriations bill, which was passed by the Senate Appropriations Committee and is ready for floor action.

"Agriculture is fundamental to Pennsylvania's economy," said Senator Specter. "It is important to continue to fund projects such as these in order to assure this sector continues to grow strong, adding to the prosperity of Pennsylvania."

"With agriculture as Pennsylvania's largest industry, this federal funding will aid in preserving and protecting the many agricultural projects and developments throughout the Commonwealth," said Senator Santorum. "The nation will continue to benefit greatly as this funding will help Pennsylvania remain a leader in agricultural production, safety, and management."

The following projects have been approved for funding:

• $745,000 for the Milk and Dairy Safety and Quality Research program at Penn State University. Penn State is recognized as a leader in research concerning the production of safe and wholesome dairy products. This funding will help researchers at the University better understand the microbiology of the Listeria organism and make progress in determining the process and handling parameters that will ensure a safe milk supply. (Centre County)

• $497,000 for Dairy Farm Profitability projects at Penn State University. This funding will benefit projects focusing on the economic and social dimensions of dairy farming, risk analysis, the economic impact of implementing voluntary animal health programs, development management, and the adoption of technology, in an attempt to help farmers increase their profitability. (Centre County)

• $149,000 for Sustainable Agriculture and Natural Resources Research at Penn State University. This project studies the cycling of nutrients in soil and crops with a special emphasis on the development of indices for measurement of soil health. The original goal of this research was to understand the cycling of nutrients from animal agricultural production systems through soil and water into crops and back to food for animals or directly to humans in the case of vegetable production. (Centre County)

• $397,000 for Penn State University's Improved Dairy Management Practices program. Last year, Congress provided funding for work done in Pennsylvania to research new and improved on-farm management practices. Innovative research directed at the farm level is essential to sustain the nation's dairy industry. This year's funding provides for further research in areas such as manure management techniques, odor abatement, induced lactation and animal health program management improvements. (Centre County)

• $1 million to the Agriculture Research Service for the study of Biomedical Materials in Plants. This funding will allow for the continued research of tobacco and other plants as a medium to produce vaccines and other biomedical products for the prevention of many human and animal diseases. This technology has the potential to shift a great deal of tobacco production to a vehicle for preventing, curing, and treating viruses and cancers in place of smoking, chewing, and other current uses.

• $248,000 for an Urban Aquaculture Program by Cheyney University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pennsylvania. The FY03 Omnibus appropriations bill provided $250,000 for this program. However, in order to implement this program, an additional $250,000 of the $994,766 total is needed to allow Cheney University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pennsylvania to create a 3-year Urban Aquaculture program to provide students the opportunity to major or minor in aquatic science in conjunction with a business administration degree. The program would focus on producing, processing, packaging, and distributing fish in an urban setting. (Delaware County, Philadelphia County)

• $500,000 for Eastern Regional Research Center Hides and Leather Research conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This Center, located in Wyndmoor, has been developing new methods of tanning cattle hides produced in the U.S. to process them in a cost effective, environmentally sensitive fashion that enhances their value and is competitive in world markets. This is the only USDA facility that conducts research on these agricultural products. (Montgomery County)

• $500,000 for the Weed Management Program at the Rodale Institute Experimental Farm. This program provides for the development of practical and profitable weed management systems using plant species, space, and time in a different way than normally used to achieve good weed control by altering the biology, chemistry, and physics of the system. Ultimately, these systems will help decrease energy use, enhance environmental quality by reducing greenhouse gases, improve soil quality and increase soil water holding capacity. (Berks County)

• $2.25 million for Coffee and Cocoa Disease Resistance/ Alternative Crop Research through the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an undetermined amount which will go to Pennsylvania. This research is vital to help control a range of domestic and tropical fungal and pest diseases which are currently plaguing the cocoa crops that are vital for domestic chocolate production. In addition, this research has proven effective in the U.S. Government's counter-drug 'alternative crop' strategy for Central and South America, which helps farmers in the region grow profitable, legal crops.

• $1.78 million for Viticulture Consortium to provide for grape and wine research for states such as Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Michigan, and Washington. The purpose of the consortium is to assist grape producers in improving yields, reducing production costs, and increasing product.

Md. Is Home To Top-Producing Guernsey Herds

HUDSON, Wis. — The American Guernsey Association (AGA) recently recognized the highest producing Guernsey herds enrolled in the Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) program at the National Guernsey Convention in Hudson, Wis.

The AGA presented the award for high TPE herd average for milk, butterfat, and protein to OCS Dairy, Clayton and Shirley Smith, of Jefferson, Md. The lactation average for this herd in 2002 was 25,708 pounds of milk, 1,227 pounds of butterfat, and 882 pounds of protein on 11 records.

The Smith family is no stranger to high production awards. In fact they received the same butterfat and protein awards for the year 2000. The Smiths milk about 125 Holsteins in addition to 20 Guernseys. They have also won numerous honors on the show ring, most notably from the great Diadora cow family.

OCS Dairy Daisys Diadora, EX-94, was All-American and Jr. All-American several times in the late 1980's and early 1990's and now is turning into a great brood cow with several of her granddaughters earning some of the same honors that she garnered. OCS Dairy Fayette Daffadil-ET and OCS Dairy Fayette Delila-ET are the latest installment of the Diadora family. These two Fayette granddaughters of Diadora earned National Class Leader status in the first quarter of 2003. Both full sisters completed two-year-old records over 25,000M 1,500F and 900P.

In 1995, the AGA board of directors voted to begin recognizing outstanding production in the larger Guernsey herds in the country. At that time, they decided to recognize those herds that were 1½ times the size of an average TPE herd. In 2002, this was 41 cows. The herds are ranked based on Energy Corrected Milk.

This year's winner is Walnut Ridge Farm of Middletown, Md.

Douglas and Evelyn Hawker and their daughter Pam Moser, own and operate Walnut Ridge Farm. In 2002 they completed 50 records for an average of 20,041 pounds of milk, 1,000 pounds of butterfat, and 684 pounds of protein. Their energy corrected milk production was 24,428.

Plans for Pennsylvania

HON. DENNIS C. WOLFF
Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture

MAKING PROGRESS WITH OUR PARTNERS

As many of you know, Ag Progress Days will be in Rockspring from Aug. 19-21. This year the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's (PDA's) theme is "Making Progress With Our Partners." This theme allows us to highlight many of the important working relationships that the department has built throughout the community.

In the first seven months of the Rendell Administration, we have worked to foster partnerships. The depth and diversity of Pennsylvania agriculture necessitates strong working relationships with our partners at many levels.

From local government to international partnerships, we are working to build relationships with those who support agriculture. These partnerships are crucial to our mission-to developing new export markets, increasing understanding about agriculture, fostering a business environment where agriculture can thrive, protecting our food system, and ensuring that all Pennsylvanians have access to affordable food. Partnerships allow us to solve problems while encouraging growth in the agricultural industry. This is an essential function of the department.

Our building at Ag Progress Days will feature five program areas: economic development, agriculture education, making Pennsylvania safe, Simply Delicious, and farmland preservation. These areas rank high on our list of priorities and we have worked hard to advance partnerships within these areas.

Along with PDA staff members, our partners will participate in promoting agriculture and in building relationships with the farmers and agribusiness entities that the Department of Agriculture represents. They will help us tell the wonderful story of agriculture. Our private sector partners help us to foster success in agriculture through pursuing economic growth and agricultural education.

In addition to our commodity and nonprofit partners, representatives of the Pennsylvania Department of Health, the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development (DCED), and the Department of Environmental Protection will join us in our building at Ag Progress Days. The strength of our state partnerships is testament to the Rendell Administration and its commitment to agriculture.

Along with PDA, the General Assembly and DCED have worked hard to design agriculturally friendly programs like the Small Business First Loan Program and the Machinery and Equipment Loan Fund. The Department of Health has joined with PDA to strengthen homeland security and, together with DEP, we have worked on rabies and West Nile Virus prevention programs. This year, DEP and PDA have successfully sought solutions to satisfy environmental regulations while enabling farmers to stay profitable.

I believe that through partnerships agriculture will maintain its position as a leading economic enterprise in Pennsylvania. By continuing to educate the public about agriculture, we will ensure that communities will welcome agriculture, and by providing agriculture the tools it needs to grow, we can ensure the Pennsylvania agriculture continues its strong economic contribution long into the future.

I hope to see you at Ag Progress Days.

Wolff Announces First Commercial Plum Pox Case Outside Quarantine Zone

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Dennis C. Wolff announced that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) has its first positive test for the Plum Pox Virus (PPV) this season located outside the Quarantine Zone in Menallen Township, Adams County.

"Despite the detection of the Plum Pox Virus outside a quarantine zone, the Department of Agriculture still feels that eradication is a viable option, and we will continue to pursue our current course of action," Wolff said. "I believe that this detection reinforces the need for ongoing monitoring programs."

Adams, Cumberland, Franklin, and York counties make up the quarantine zone.

When a tree tests positive for PPV, PDA establishes a 500-meter buffer zone around the infected tree or block of trees. Wolff noted that two peach trees were found to have Plum Pox and that the three growers affected by this detection have been notified and issued treatment orders. All stone fruit trees within the zone must be removed and destroyed, including the 15 acres managed by the three impacted growers and any trees on homeowner properties.

In 2002, less than a dozen acres of commercial trees tested positive for PPV. In fact, there has been a drastic decrease in the amount of stone fruit acreage infected with PPV after its initial detection in Pennsylvania in the fall of 1999.

PDA and U.S. Department of Agriculture surveyors will continue to visit commercial stone fruit orchards in the four-county PPV quarantine area and adjacent counties. Visits are also continuing on homeowner properties in and near the quarantine area.

"In addition to finding and eradicating the Plum Pox Virus, the goal of this department is to restore the growers' ability to produce peaches and other stone fruit quickly. It is essential to our economy and to their livelihood that they return to optimal production as quickly and as safely as possible," Wolff said.

Information on Pennsylvania's Plum Pox Eradication Program can be found at http://www.agriculture.state.pa.us.

a year ago. Most of this increase has come from Australia (up 68 percent) and New Zealand (up 69 percent). Did you know that so far this year we've imported 3,854 metric tons of casein from India? We've also imported casein from 18 different countries including Belarus, China, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Lithuania, the Russian Federation, and Ukraine.

This "least input cost" syndrome runs rampant in this country. It affects our labor costs, it affects all levels of industry, it affects nearly every business at every level.

With weakening dairy prices, with imports affecting the price received by farmers, we are looking at new ways for farmers to bolster their income.

Just this week we attended the well-run Penn Allied Nursery Trade Show at the Fort Washington Expo Center in Fort Washington. The event is produced and coordinated by the folks at the Pennsylvania Landscape and Nursery Association in Harrisburg.

About 12,000 landscape and nursery managers, retail green industry representatives, and others attended the event. The trade show, covering about 225,000 square feet, hosted 1,100 exhibitors at 650 exhibits. It's a $3.1 billion regional industry.

Are there outlets for dairy farmers through these tough times? Sure, but it may lay entirely in direct marketing. Many of them have already engulfed themselves in looking beyond their own industry to the green industry, which has shown phenomenal growth.

Interesting note: the tobacco industry in this state has all but died. Marc Tosiano, state statistician, reports in his NASS column this issue:

One item of national interest is that all harvested tobacco acres is estimated at 413,710 acres, down 3 percent from both the 2002 crop and 1 percent below the March Intentions report. If realized, this would be the lowest harvested acreage since 1874.

Let's keep an open mind about new technologies and new industries in these trying, changing times.

potentially cost farms thousands of dollars." One grower in particular is facing $231,990 worth of penalities for 229 violations.

Today's farmers and growers need a reliable, cost effective, and easy way to keep their pesticide and farm records. NSIA, Inc., a company that focuses on providing computer and software solutions to the agriculture, horticulture, and turf industries has free information available (call (800) 270-0047) on this subject. There are software programs available today that ease the time and effort required to keep good production and work records, including pesticide records. The company is a trusted reseller for FarmWorks and AgVance software, products that automate the keeping and posting of farm records, including herbicide and insecticide application. Their Website, www.nsia.us, offers more information on these innovative solutions.

"Our product allows farmers, growers, and custom applicators to easily keep accurate records of pesticide application so that they are able to monitor the security of their workers and adhere to EPA requirements," said Campfield. "These records are vitally important in avoiding government fines, and in documenting a farmer's care of the environment from which they make their living. Good records also help a grower make better decisions and strengthen the farm business in other ways." The agricultural industry is rapidly adopting computer technology, with surveys showing more than 45 percent of growers now using computers and/or the internet in their daily operations. Campfield attests that many farmers are now turning to laptops or pocket PCs instead of the paper notebooks.

NFU Leaders Explore Policy Issues With Canadians

CHARLOTTETOWN, Prince Edward Island — The president of the National Farmers Union and several state Farmers Union presidents explored current policy issues with their Canadian counterparts during the Canadian Federation of Agriculture's semi-annual meeting here.

The U.S. country-of-origin labeling, or "COOL" law, the current World Trade Organization talks and Canada's incidence of Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy (BSE) were, expectedly, the hot topics.

NFU President Dave Frederickson began the discussion with a speech in which he addressed all three issues. On trade, Frederickson outlined a series of what he called "myths" about trade policy. Included on the farm leader's myth list was the notion that "trade agreements create free and fair trade." It's not true, said Frederickson. "Often they ignore issues that directly impact competitiveness or distort production market signals."

Frederickson's second of such myths is the assertion that trade agreements will increase markets and income for farmers and ranchers. He says that since ratification of the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) and the Uruguay Round WTO agreement, "U.S. market share has generally declined, imports of competing products have increased and net farm income attributed to the sale of farm commodities, excluding government payments, has declined."

Frederickson's group has proposed a broader trade agenda. "Such an agenda should recognize the need to achieve domestic food safety and security for all countries," Frederickson said. "It should also address the prevalence of an agricultural commodity supply-and-demand imbalance that results in inadequate economic returns to producers, and we should consider the impacts of the concentrated market power that exists among a limited number of agricultural market participants."

The farm leader also discussed the mandatory country-of-origin labeling law passed as part of the current U.S. farm bill. Frederickson said he makes "no apologies" for the law, noting that more than 60 countries have some form of country-of-origin labeling. "We are the largest market in the world and our farmers are not afraid to compete," he said. "But, one key element in that competition is providing the consumer with the information needed to be able to differentiate our products from those of our competitors."

Finally, on the troubling topic of the incident of BSE in Alberta earlier this year, Frederickson expressed sympathy with the plight of Canadian beef producers who are reportedly losing more than 10 million Canadian dollars a day as a result of the closing of the U.S. border to Canadian beef imports. However, the farm leader said, "We do so only because we must take the steps necessary to protect our domestic beef industry, consistent with the similar restrictions that have been applied to other nations that have discovered a (BSE) case."

In addition to Frederickson, NFU board members attending the joint meeting were NFU Vice President Alan Bergman, North Dakota Farmers Union President Robert Carlson, Minnesota Farmers Union President Doug Peterson, Ohio Farmers Union President Joe Logan, Wisconsin Farmers Union President Sue Beitlich and Missouri Farmers Union President Russ Kremer.

NFU Testifies On Impacts Of The Sale Of Farmland Foods To Smithfield Foods

WASHINGTON, D.C. — During a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing, Missouri Farmers Union President Russ Kremer outlined the concerns of independent pork producers related to the potential acquisition of Farmland Foods pork division by Smithfield Foods and the competitive market implications of the proposed sale.

Kremer presented testimony before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on Antitrust, Competition Policy, and Consumer Rights on behalf of National Farmers Union.

"The loss of our nation's largest farmer-owned cooperative is not only devastating to America's independent agricultural producers, but also furthers the goal of Smithfield Foods to gain greater control of the pork production and processing sector," Kremer said. "If this sale is approved by the U.S. Bankruptcy Court and the U.S. Department of Justice, Smithfield Foods will control 27 percent of the pork processing industry and the only market opportunities for independent producers in my area."

"The loss of family farms and other independently owned businesses is not inevitable. To allow this proposal to be approved prior to Congress conducting a thorough review to ensure antitrust laws are adequate, would be like shutting the gate after all the pigs got out," Kremer said.

Kremer said that Smithfield officials have indicated that if the proposal is approved, they would continue to operate and maintain production levels at all Farmland plants. What has been left unsaid is the fate of the other plants purchased by Smithfield via previous acquisitions and mergers that may now be determined inefficient. National Farmers Union noted it is concerned about the ripple effects this acquisition will have on independent pork producers, local businesses, and rural communities if the proposal is allowed to proceed before Congress has time to review antitrust laws.

In his testimony, Kremer highlighted 10 possible reforms that the subcommittee could create to update and strengthen current anti-trust laws. These reforms will help ensure fairness, transparency, protection, and bargaining rights for producers, which would restore and enhance competition for agricultural markets.

A focus on the latest forage varieties will be part of the Sept. 13 issue of Foraging Around.
Also scheduled: update on pastured poultry research at Penn State and the latest haymaking and grazing information from various field days.

Etherton To Head Animal Science Society

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The American Society of Animal Science (ASAS) has announced that Dr. Terry Etherton, head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science, and distinguished professor of animal nutrition at Penn State will serve as president for 2003-2004.

The announcement was made at the annual meeting conducted June 22-26 in Phoenix, Ariz. The American Society of Animal Sciences is a professional scientific society that represents more than 5,000 animal scientists worldwide.

Etherton is a native of Illinois and received his B.S. degree in agricultural science from the University of Illinois in 1971 and was awarded the M.S. degree in animal science from the University of Illinois in 1974. He received his Ph.D. degree in animal science from the University of Minnesota in 1978.

Etherton was an NIH postdoctoral fellow in the Department of Medicine at Stanford University from 1978 to 1979.

In 1979, Etherton joined the faculty in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State. He assumed the position of department head at Penn State in 1998.

"I am excited about serving the leading animal science society in the world. There are tremendous opportunities for the society to proactively communicate with consumers and policymakers about important science-based information that the scientists in our society discover," Etherton said.

Established in 1908, ASAS is a professional organization for animal scientists designed to help members provide effective leadership through research, extension, teaching, and service for the dynamic and rapidly changing livestock and meat industries. The society publishes monthly the Journal of Animal Science as a means of disseminating scientific and educational information; promotes research that discovers and expands knowledge in animal science; fosters high standards of education; promotes the profession and vocation of animal science; serves as a resource for information on issues of public concern related to animals; and interacts with other national organizations that have similar goals.

FSA Seeks Candidates

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Farm Service Agency (FSA) is looking for candidates for the farmer-elected county committee election to be conducted this fall. There will be 46 such elections across the state.

"It is crucial that every eligible agricultural producer take part in this election because county committees are a direct link between the farm community and the U.S. Department of Agriculture," said Richard B. Pallman, state executive director . Nomination forms can be obtained from FSA county offices. Completed nomination forms are due back to the FSA office by Sept. 5.

Dairy Shows To Highlight Tioga Co. Fair

The 2003 Tioga County Fair will feature three quality dairy shows. The animals will arrive by 3 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 4, the official opening day of the Fair.

The first show, open to 4-H and FFA members, will begin at 9 a.m., Wednesday, Aug. 6. Starting with showmanship and fitting classes for each age group, the show will proceed through all seven dairy breeds, showing in two rings.

Several changes have been made in the open dairy shows. The colored breed show will take place Friday at 11 a.m., while the Holstein and Red and White show will be Saturday morning beginning at 9 a.m. In past years, these shows have alternated yearly between Friday and Saturday. However, due to the length of the shows and the confusion resulting from the alternation, the dairy committee has decided to permanently hold the shows with Colored Breeds on Friday and Holstein and Red/White on Saturday.

Dauphin County 4-H Annual Free Fair

The 4-H Clubs of Dauphin County will conduct their Annual 4-H Fair, Aug. 6-9, at the Farm Show Complex, Harrisburg.

This free 4-H Fair is open to the public, Wednesday from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., Thursday and Friday, 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon. Parking and admission are free.

The 4-H Fair is an exhibition of 4-H projects. Exhibits include sewing, foods, horticulture, rabbits, cats, dogs, goats, sheep, swine, cattle, and horses. Animals are available for petting. 4-H members and leaders are available to answer questions.

A horse show featuring Hunt Seat, Saddle Seat, Stock Seat, Gaming, Trail, Driving, Reining, Pairs, and County Team will take place Friday beginning at noon and again Saturday, 9 a.m. till noon.

On Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., a series of hands-on learning stations will be available for families. To schedule your family or for more information, contact Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 921-8803.

Chester County 4-H Fair

The Romano 4-H Center, 1841 Horseshoe Pike (Route 322 near Route 82), Honey Brook, will be the location for this year's Chester Co. 4-H Fair.

General project exhibits focus on dozen of 4-H projects Chester County young people have been working on this year — rocketry, pet care, photography, sewing, leadership, foods and nutrition, wildlife, computer science, and many more.

Over 100 dairy cows of various breeds competed last year — Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys, Linebacks, Ayrshires, and Brown Swiss, to name a few! This year's Dairy Show will begin at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 9.

For further information, contact the Penn State extension office at (610) 696-3500.

Delaware Co. 4-H Summer Fair

Delaware County 4-H invites the public to the Summer Fair on Friday evening, Aug. 8, and Saturday, Aug. 9, at the 4-H Farm and Center, Garrett Williamson Foundation, 395 Bishop Hollow Road, Newtown Square.

The annual country fair draws area families to the 4-H Farm for a series of activities, contests, displays, pony and hay rides, and animal showing. The fair also serves as a showcase for 4-H youth to present their completed projects from the past year.

The fair begins on Friday with a small horse show at 3 p.m., followed by opening ceremonies at 5 p.m. and sheep and pig showmanship.

Special visitors both days of the Fair include the Litterbug from Pennsylvania Resources Council and antique farm equipment presented by George and Shirley Carnog. Saturday's schedule begins at 9 a.m. with livestock showing, silent auction, various contests, a small country store, a used book sale, and a live auction. An educational exhibit on composting will be provided by Penn State Master Gardeners.

Pony and hayrides run regularly from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturday. Market animals, hand-raised by youth members at the farm, are sold to bidders at the live auction at 2 p.m. Vegetable, poultry, and educational exhibits remain on display throughout the fair, and food and refreshments are available. The fair closes at 4 p.m.

Land O'Lakes Reports Second Quarter Results

ARDEN HILLS, Minn. — Land O'Lakes, Inc., recently reported its second quarter and year-to-date financial results, while also commenting on individual business unit performance and progress against key strategic initiatives.

For the quarter, the company reported $1.40 billion in sales and $44.7 million in net earnings, as compared to $1.42 billion and $48.3 million, respectively, in the second quarter of 2002. Year-to-date, sales are $2.85 billion and net earnings are $44.3 million, versus $2.95 billion and $47.3 million for the same period one year ago. EBITDA (Earnings Before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation, Amortization, and other items, as defined in the company's bond indenture) are at $85.5 million through June 30, as compared to $100.8 million one year ago.

Company officials indicated that, when litigation settlement proceeds are excluded, 2003 first half EBITDA is $66.3 million, versus $68.1 million for the first half of 2002. Due to the challenging operating environment, Land O'Lakes revised its full-year EBITDA forecast from $255 million to $230 million.

Land O'Lakes reported progress against three key strategic initiatives, as well as positive performance in its branded, value-added, and proprietary businesses and product lines.

Habecker Advocates Dairy Trade Issues With Local Legislators

WASHINGTON, D.C. — With the proposed Free Trade Agreement with Australia and increasing imports of milk proteins concentrates threatening to displace U.S. domestic milk supplies, Nelson Habecker, a dairy farmer from Lancaster, asked his local legislators to support the dairy industry and their dairy-farmer constituents on these crucial issues.

Habecker, chairman of Land O'Lakes Policies and Resolutions Committee, traveled to Washington, D.C., as part of a Land O'Lakes legislative "fly-in" earlier this month. While in the Capitol City, the Land O'Lakes delegation received briefings from national trade organizations, including National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and National Milk Producers Federation, and visited with their legislators. Habecker met personally with Sen. Rick Santorum and Rep. Joe Pitts. He also met with staff members for Sen. Arlen Specter and Rep. Tim Holden.

"Land O'Lakes members do not support a Free Trade Agreement with Australia because it would be a one-way street for dairy and other commodities," Habecker told them. "This agreement would expose U.S. producers to unacceptable increases in imports that would destroy our domestic markets."

Instead, Habecker encouraged the legislators to encourage the Bush Administration to focus resources on completing the new multilateral round of WTO discussions. "Only in this setting can dairy producers expect a reasonable hope of gaining new markets."

Lancaster County dairy producer Nelson Habecker met with Senator Rick Santorum during a Land O'Lakes legislative fly-in to Washington, D.C., in July to advocate support for the dairy industry on dairy trade issues.

Habecker also urged support for legislation in the House and Senate that would restrict MPC imports. "By allowing dairy protein imports (in the form of MPC and casein), we are displacing domestically produced dairy proteins and exacerbating the problem of low milk prices," he said. "The proposed legislation is necessary to close this loophole."

According to Habecker, Land O'Lakes is actively involved in the negotiation of trade subsidy reductions and market access issues. "Our goals are to support an aggressive reduction of subsidies worldwide and open new markets for the profitable export of U.S. products."

Attorney/Farmer Makes Waste Useful

NICKI LEFEVER
Special Correspondent

ROYERSFORD (Montgomery Co.) —Ned Foley practices law by day and picks up trash by night.

The 40-year-old attorney/farmer and his wife Gail rent Two Particular Acres, a 50-acre crop farm in Royersford.

The Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection issued the first on-farm compost permit to the Foleys in February.

The permit allows Foley to make a practical business of collecting and reusing organic waste.

Foley said his interest in compost started in 1999. The farm he rents was a dump sight for a landscaper's wood chips through an agreement with the land owner.

"It was becoming a nightmare," Foley said. "I would clean it up and more would come. I started researching the compost process and putting it back into the farm and it worked."

In October, 2002, the Pennsylvania Legislature passed regulations for on-farm compost permits and Foley applied for the permit right away to make his practical methods work for more than just himself.

The permit allows Foley to charge a tipping fee, less than it costs at a landfill, to pick up and take in yard waste, food waste, cardboard and manures to be utilized as feed stocks for composting.

His customers include golf courses, horse farms and residents and he is looking to include a grocery store or school cafeteria.

The organic material, after a 12-week decomposition period, is used as a soil fertilizer/conditioner on the farm or sold as mulch or topsoil to the public for $35 per cubic yard and a delivery charge.

This permit, said Foley, creates two revenue opportunities: a tipping fee for incoming waste and revenue for finished product sales.

The community also benefits, said Foley. The project creates usable products that were originally headed to landfills.

"It is a way for people to reconnect with their trash," Foley said. "When someone brings waste to me they might see it again."

Foley's business didn't happen overnight. The permit took five months to get. The application cost $500 and took the better part of a day to fill out. The equipment; a compost turner, screen machine, grinder and roll off truck, cost thousands of dollars, but a grant from DEP helped Foley get going.

It was worth it according to Foley.

"If you build it, they will come," Foley said.

He's had an overwhelming response from the community and his biggest problem is telling people he can't take their waste.

With the permit, Foley is only allowed to take five acres of waste. He started with one acre to make sure he was comfortable with the process.

Foley monitors the sight with the help of trusted friends to make sure he is sticking to the regulations, but has no set hours.

"I pick up waste and have people drop it off by appointment," Foley said.

According to Foley, there are many opportunities for farmers to make money, in fact, he found it helps his farm pay for itself.

But money is not the main issue for Foley, who wants to engage the community with his farm by giving recycling a comeback .

"The whole thing just makes sense," he said.

Maryland Pork Producers To Elect Delegates

EDGEWATER, Md. — Maryland Pork Producers Association (MPPA) President, Jennifer Debnam has announced that the election of the two pork producer delegate candidates for the 2004 Delegation Body of the National Pork Board (Pork Act) will take place at 10 a.m., Saturday, Aug. 23.

This election will be conducted in conjunction with the MPPA Board of Directors meeting at the Maryland State Fairgrounds in Timonium, Maryland. All Maryland pork producers are invited to attend.

The National Pork Board determines the manner in which checkoff monies, generated from the sale of pork, are spent. Checkoff funds can be used for promotion, research, and education.

"Pork checkoff funds have been used successfully to promote 'Pork...The Other White Meat®,' " said Debnam.

Any producer, who is a resident of the state and has paid all assessment due, may be considered as a delegate candidate. For further information contact Lynne Hoot, executive director, (410) 956-5771.

Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold mixed with Graded Number One bull calves trading 10.00 to 20.00 higher, Graded Number Two bull calves steady, and Graded Number Three calves steady to weak. The percentage of Graded calves moving directly to slaughter has increased from last weeks average of 7 percent to as much as 27 percent early in the week. Holstein heifer calves sold steady to weak. Northeast veal profits remain very good, with local feeders continuing to report dressed prices as high as 300.00. The PA Department of Agriculture graded 1387 head of heifer and bull calves at the two graded sales in Lancaster County this week, compared to 1267 last week.

Dairy Market Outlook

Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Lithuania, the Russian Federation, and Ukraine.

Wonder why your price for "other dairy solids" is so low? It's because the wholesale value of dry whey fell from nearly $0.29 per pound in 2001 to $0.14 per pound today. This is driven by supply and demand (economists always say that). Imports so far this year may have contributed a bit to lower prices.

For the first five months of this year, imports were up for the following products: whey protein concentrates (HTS 350220) up 50 percent, whey and modified whey imports (HTS 040410) up 14 percent, lactose (99 percent or more lactose) (HTS 170211) up 44 percent, and other lactose (99 percent or less by weight) (HTS 170219) up 442 percent. This is quite amazing since 1) we are a major exporter of whey products and lactose, and 2) there are no access (quota) requirements for these products.

Finally, imports of condensed milk were 6,028 metric tons for the first five months of this year, down 1.8 percent from a year ago. Guess where 72 percent of this volume came from? Brazil! Their imports were up 18,023 percent from the same period a year ago.

BEEF UP WEAK ALFALFA FIELDS FAST WITH

Dandie says...

High Energy Grasses

No-till Into Alfalfa Fields from Mid-August thru September

The combination of last year's harsh winter followed by a sunless rainy spring has left many alfalfa fields in poor condition. It's probably not wise to take out all the weak fields in one season. Many fields will need to be rotated out of alfalfa, or thickened with fast starting grasses this August or early September. These featured grasses are best for balage, haylage, and grazing.

ZORRO ITALIAN RYEGRASS

Zorro can be used to increase production this fall and up to two cuts next spring. Nel's are typically in the 70's. We like to double crop Zorro with our BMR Sorghum Sudangrasses. In the spring of 2002, Zorro yielded 6773 lbs. of dry matter at W. Maryland Research & Ed. Ctr. near Hagerstown, MD. [Note: Last year's extreme winter caused some injury to Zorro and other ryegrasses. In most cases, Zorro recovered well and yielded two big cuttings of high energy balage].

PERUN FESTULOLIUM

Perun is a very impressive 3-year crop perfect for extending the stand life of newly established stands that have thinned a little, but are worth keeping around for 1-3 years longer. Those who have tried Perun have been impressed with its yield and quality It is very similar to Italian ryegrass in quality, but tolerates weather extremes better. This spring we had no reports of winter injury. In the 2001 Cornel Univ. ryegrass trial planting Perun yielded 6.85 tons dry matter in 2002.

GREENFAST MIX

Greenfast is our high yielding, short term mix that has over 30 percent Perun festulolium. It also contains Athos orchardgrass, Tivoli perennial ryegrass, Laura meadow fescue, and premium clovers. This mix is ideal for short term (3 years or so) wet hay and grazing fields, and it is excellent for converting alfalfa fields to grazing.

"The first time I saw a Slurrystore 25 years ago, I knew I wanted one. They were so neat and clean."

Joe Snyder Family
Millmont, PA
81'x14' Slurrystore® erected Sept. 2002

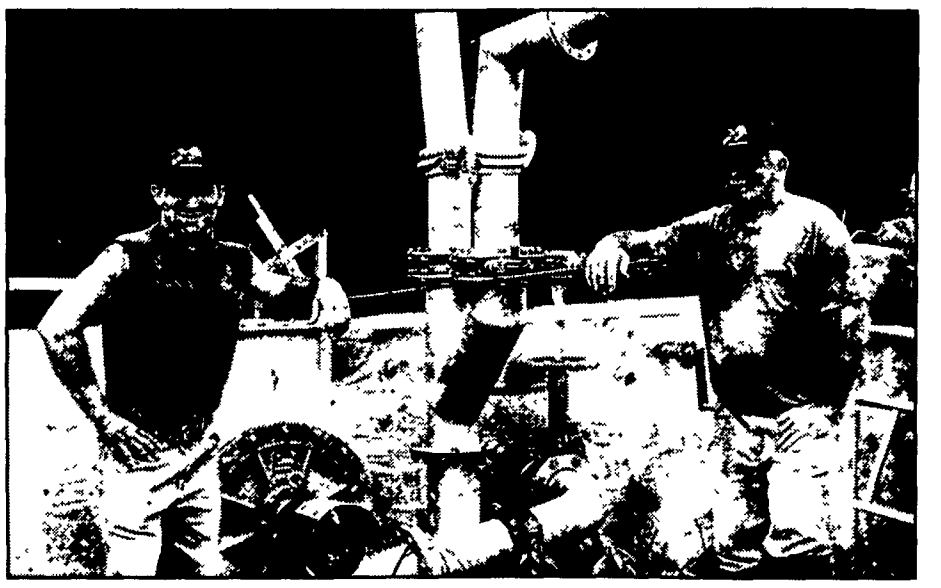
"We had an NRCS-designed earthen pit with a concrete bottom for nearly 20 years. We were tired of it. It was impossible to expand and very unsightly. It took too long to agitate the pit. We would agitate for hours and still have 2 to 3 feet of solids left in the bottom. And we worried about animals and people getting into it."

"After being a Harvestore® owner for years, we liked their design and we liked the way the Slurrystore looked. It has a neat appearance and we knew nothing could get into it."



"We really like the pump design. Slurrystores have their own pump and they work. And with our Slurrystore, we can expand our storage by jacking it up. We are able to double the size of our tank."

Seeing is believing, Titus Keller said of his four passenger motor cycle. Keller, a mechanic for 50 years, enjoys combining parts to make unusual pieces such as these. He said it's the only one in the world. Passengers with Keller are Dalton Fitting, 12; Tanner Fitting, 8; and Clayton Hilenberger, 6. The Fitting brothers said in between showing cows, they like to wander the fairgrounds to find stuff like this.

Lebanon Area Fair Attracts Crowds

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Bigger, better, improved!

Hype?

Not when the adjectives apply to Lebanon Area Fair.

For the 47th year, the Lebanon Area Fair Board offered the same great competitions as usual, but managed to include more opportunities for participation.

More than $50,000 in premiums were distributed to winners in competitions scheduled from July 26-Aug. 2.

This issue includes coverage of many of the events and photos of people who help make the fair successful. The barns were filled with animals and birds of many breeds, abundant food available to satisfy every tastebud, and activities scheduled for all ages. But even with all the competitions, musical entertainment, and exhibits — without visitors — the fair would not be successful.

Take a peek at many of Lebanon Area Fair's events printed throughout this issue of Lancaster Farming.

The Keller cousins always attend Lebanon Area Fair to watch their Zuck cousins show Holsteins. The clan includes the children of Joel and Sharon Keller: Julian, 12; Peter, 10; Margo, 7; and Chandelle, 5. The children of Jeff and Karen Zuck are Amanda, 13; Bradley, 12; and Valerie, 9.

On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Hay there.

Since time immemorial, cows have eaten grass and its dried form, hay. Cows' inner-workings process forages through a four-stomach manufacturing process, which converts the grassy intake into two basic outputs.

One product is milk for their offspring and a diet staple for much of the world's population. A second output is a valuable soil nutrient builder which could, in our politically-correct extreme times, appropriately be labeled "used forage."

Once upon a time, all dairy cows grazed, gathering their own forages and automatically returning soil nutrients to be broken down by weathering and time. Grazing demands some significant volume of land devoted to grass. Modern land crunches and herd size growth over the years have limited extensive grazing availability for dairy cows. Intensive grazing techniques, however, do continue to be popular and successful with a percentage of our dairy farms.

In climates where cold weather inhibits the growth of grass year-round, keepers of animals eons ago developed techniques to preserve feed for the off seasons. One of my most enduring memories of a European farm tour years ago is of a high mountain in Switzerland, where a farm family was hand-raking hay from a tiny and incredibly steep grass field.

Some animal species even gather their own hay for winter. The pika, a fluffy, small alpine rodent that lives high in the Western mountains, spends its short summers stashing away mouthfuls of dried grasses in its rocky lair, feeding from that storage through the frozen months.

While hand-haying continues in remote parts of the world, equipment engineering has brought forage preservation light years ahead in our short lifetime. Our parents grew up on small general farms where they gathered and packed away loose piles of hay for their few cows. Our children (and I!) rejoiced with the arrival of our first large, round-baler years ago, saving endless hours of pitching bales around oven-like barn storage areas on humid, 90-degree July afternoons.

While we still harvest a few hundred small bales for calf and fresh cow feeding, the bulk of our hay moves in large rolls, impaled one by one on a sturdy, steel prong fastened to a loading device on the front end of a tractor. Giant, rectangular-shaped bales are more highly favored by growers, especially in the West, whose end goal is to ship and sell the packed forage. Rectangles stack better than rolls for distance hauling.

In an agriculture poll taken a few years ago, the large baler was voted the most important equipment technological improvement of the century. That's certainly arguable, but hard to deny after unloading wagonfuls of small bales on a steamy, summer afternoon.

While handling techniques have modernized, some things about hay are constant.

Hay storage areas invite kids to jump, swing, tunnel, and climb high up to the spider-webbed, nether-reaches of a big barn stuffed with scratchy dry grass. Mother cats still find nooks and crannies among hay storage to curl up and give birth to their kittens. And, every spring, at least in our barn, one of our nasty, old hens will hunker down in a hay-mow corner to hatch out a nest of eggs.

So, in a world of constant change and uncertain times, making hay, in some form, remains an important part of rural agriculture and tradition.

Excuse me, now, while I go sweep all this dried, green "tradition" off the kitchen floor.

Milk IS the real thing!

Best Range?

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — Glass-top ranges are currently the most popular choice. They heat quickly (five to seven seconds) and many include a warming burner. A pressure canner can be used on these burners, but not cast iron skillets; glass pans are not as efficient in heating foods on these stoves. Ease of cleaning is the main advantage. Disadvantages include having pots "walk" and some shiny surface tops may easily show marks like fingerprints.

Price differences is standard electric ranges relate primarily to the number of coils, with higher-priced models providing greater wattage for more cooking power. Newer ovens give more accurate temperature control, varying only 10 degrees from a given temperature setting, versus 30 degrees for older models.

Gas ranges now have electric ignitions instead of pilot lights, and closed burners. Some also have a warming drawer. Convection ovens can hold three racks. Their advantage is in cooking meats in a shorter time and resulting in a juicier product. They are not as good for baking.

Chester County Crowns New Dairy Princess

CHESTER SPRINGS (Chester Co.) — Chester County Dairy farmers wrapped up June Dairy Month and kicked off July Ice Cream Month by crowning a new dairy princess and court. The pageant was conducted June 29 at the lovely Chester Springs Creamery overlooking the meadows of Milky Way Farm in Chester Springs, northeastern Chester County.

Meredith Baily, daughter of Bernard and Jane Baily of West Chester received the title and crown of Chester County Dairy Princess. The 2002 Chester County Dairy Princess, Elizabeth Young was on hand to perform the coronation honors.

Cristy Guest, daughter of Stan and Cathy Guest, Pottstown, received the title and crown of Chester County alternate dairy princess.

Five dairy ambassadors who make up the court include: Becky Baily, daughter of Barnard and Jane Baily, West Chester; Trish Harrop, daughter of Bruce and Betsy Harrop, Exton; Abby Hedrick, daughter of Ruth and John Hedrick, Pottstown; and Rebecca Nolan, daughter of Rob and Sharon Nolan, Cochranville.

Elizabeth Young, daughter of Charles and Debra Young, West Grove, and past 2002 Dairy Princess will continue to promote the dairy industry as a county ambassador. In her farewell speech she spoke about her dairy princess experiences. As ambassador, she will encourage the other ambassadors to continue with the program and to learn more about the dairy industry so they may one day become a dairy princess.

Sharon Nolan, Chester County and member of the Chester County Dairy Princess Program Committee welcomed the audience and introduced Steven E. Dietrich, the Penn State Extension agent for Chester County who served as the Master of Ceremonies.

After introductions and a brief interview of contestants, each had opportunity to give a prepared speech.

Meredith Baily focused her presentation on the nutritional aspects of milk. She explained the benefits of milk and each nutrient. She explained that about 70 percent of Americans do not eat the correct amount of dairy product to benefit their nutritional needs.

Christy Guest talked about the concerns facing the modern dairy farmer in Chester County. She discussed how educating the public about farming could benefit the community and increased a deeper awareness of the value of the family farm.

Each of the dairy ambassadors also prepared a speech beginning with Becky Baily who talked about the importance of drinking milk and eating dairy products during the teenage years. She also explained the importance of calcium in our daily lives.

Trish Harrop, the youngest of the court, has had many experiences with her life on the farm. In her speech she shared some of the events. She explained that her life is new and different each day, and never wanting for activity or the security of family life.

Abby Hedrick did not grow up on a farm but has always loved animals. Without animals on her families four acres, she deciced to go to the animals, and began working on a neighboring farm that now houses her own dairy 4-H animals. She explained what could happen to the dairy industry because of rapid development in her vicinity. Abby is involved in educating younger people about the importance of farming in Chester County.

Becky Nolan spoke of the need for Americans to consume the recommended amounts of dairy products. She gave statistics and the value of the nutritional aspects of milk and milk products.

The Chester County Court will appear at dairy events throughout the coming year in addition to visiting schools, grocery stores, and county fairs where they will talk with the public about the aspects of milk and hand out promotional materials. Anyone interested in inviting the Chester County Dairy Royalty to a local event may do so by contacting Sharon Nolan, booking chairperson (610) 593-7465.

Teachers Participate In Ag In The Classroom Workshop

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Forty elementary teachers from across the state gathered in Westminster in June for the 2003 Ag in the Classroom Workshop presented by the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation. Agricultural industry professionals and educators from the region came together to present dozens of educational ideas and materials to teachers for use in their classrooms in the coming year. Teachers left the workshop with books, videos, curriculum materials, handouts, and enthusiasm for infusing agriculture concepts into students' reading, writing, science, math, and social studies curriculum.

The week-long workshop provided five action-packed days of seminars, field trips, demonstrations, and hands-on activities. Seminars included Agriculture — Keystone of Civilization, Geography of Maryland Agriculture, Maryland Magic, Economics is Fundamental, Udderly Amazing, New Resources from Delmarva's Poultry Industry, Kids Growing Grains, Sheepy Shenanigans, Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Beef, Ag Goes into The Classroom, and more.

Field trips included a behind-the-scenes tour of Baugher's Orchard and Bakery in Westminster, an opportunity to learn about Maryland's dairy industry with a visit to Sellers Dairy Farm in Manchester, a close-up look at Maryland's egg industry at the R.W. Sauder Egg Packing Plant in Hampstead, and a visit to Union Mills Homestead and Grist Mill.

The teachers got their hands dirty with workshops on the importance of soil and soil stewardship, exploring the many ways plants are used while making a topiary and "building" their own scarecrow under the direction of the staff from Spring Meadow Farms. Teachers had the opportunity to experience several hands-on projects using soybeans and they also constructed their own crate representing the varied agricultural products of the state.

A highlight of the workshop was the premiere showing of "Take Me Out to the Corn Field," a video produced by the Foundation and Blue Plate Productions of New York. The video demonstrates how a baseball game could not be possible without agriculture and shares facts about Maryland's top agricultural products. Curriculum guides are being developed to accompany the video and other educational resources developed by the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation in 2003.

Children And Money Learning Begins Early

Why should parents teach children about spending and saving?

According to the American Bankers Association, the average American family spends $1.22 for every dollar it earns. No, it is not a misprint.

While it is not a topic for bragging, Americans tend to spend more than they earn. Teaching children financial skills begins early in life. Children's attitudes about money are most influenced by (in order) parents, the media, their peers/siblings, and their own successes and failures. When begun early, spending and saving habits become learning experiences.

Children who learn good money management skills are more likely to become adults who can make sound decisions, avoid excessive debt, and manage income and expenses to teach financial goals.

Kids are interested in money. As early as four, children learn that money buys "stuff." Start talking to your preschooler about money. Use a piggy bank and teach how to identify and count coins. Between the ages of three and five, most children can't equate the actual size of the coin with its value. For example, a four-year-old doesn't understand that a dime — the smaller coin in size — is worth more than a nickel. The actual number of coins is more important than the value. By using the piggy bank theory, you can also begin to teach saving for a specific item.

Plan, however, to include the buying aspect into this equation. Four-year-olds aren't ready for saving for long term goals. During the preschool years, children begin to understand commercials on television. They learn quickly that the items they see on TV must be purchased. Begin talking with them about the financial realities of life and how choices are made. They will not grasp the concept immediately.

Begin early. It takes years to understand those realities. Window shop with children. Take the child to the store and check out a toy he or she saw on television. Look over the toy. Parents and child can decide if the toy does what the TV commercial promises.

Once a child shows both interest and understanding of the concept of money and that it can be exchanged for goods and services, he or she is ready to learn the basics. By age five, many children are ready. At age five or six, parents may want to introduce an allowance and the concept of savings. By this age, a child can identify coins and cash, know how to count and have a basic understanding of spending.

The purpose of an allowance is to teach children how to manage money based on their needs, wants, and goals.

A debate surfaces: "Is an allowance given for chores done around the house? Or, is it given in order to teach money management?"

Views differ. Some parents feel that allowances should be earned for doing jobs around the house. Others feel that as a member or the family, children share in the family income.

Neither viewpoint is right nor wrong. The allowance can begin to teach the basics of money management. It should not be used for punishment. The big issue is that the family should talk about money, allowances choices, and decisions together.

For children, between the ages of five and nine, the allowance should be paid once a week. It can be a small amount that the child can spend or save. Restrictions such as savings, church giving, etc. can be placed on the use of the allowance or any money received from gifts. The restrictions are part of teaching children to plan the use of their money. When children begin spending money, parents can help them analyze their decision making. Some purchases are good and some are bad. The spending lesson is what is important.

How much should parents give for an allowance? There is no sure answer. Remember that children have three uses for their money spending, saving, and sharing. Consider all three as you decide on an amount. Discuss it as a family. The allowance should reasonably fit into the total family budget.

Children learn to manage their money through their own experiences. Parents oversee that experience. They learn through trial and error just like their parents did. Hopefully if they learn as children, the money mistakes as adults will be more easily handled.

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map sold extremely well—until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's years of work to a landfill.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

The few remaining copies became prized fisherman's possessions, known to some as the "Lost Stream Map." Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Karl Ings and Larry Seaman of Vivid Publishing, Inc., a Williamsport firm, found new technology that enabled them to reproduce and republish the map. Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Before his death in 1993, Professor Higbee shared his knowledge of map making with Seaman and Ings, and supported the creation of new state stream maps. Stream maps now cover 18 states, New York, Michigan, Ohio, Maryland-Delaware, New Jersey, Northern California, Washington, Colorado, Wisconsin, Virginia, Missouri and 5 New England States. All 50 states will be available by the end of 2003.

Professor Higbee's maps are the first and only highly detailed maps of their kind.

Do something innovative with summer produce — put it in bread. That's what these three finalists did when they entered Lebanon Area Fair's Simply Delicious Vegetable Quick Bread contest. From left are first-place winner Nancy Hibshman, Myerstown; Linda Siegel, Lebanon; and Danette Ocker, Richland.

Featured Recipe

Vegetables are good for us — and plentiful this time of the year.

Garden fresh produce is the best tasting and most nutritious.

If your lucky enough to have your own garden, you're probably searching for new and innovative ways to serve summer's bounty.

Vegetable bread is one way. Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program sponsors a contest, Pennsylvania Simply Delicious Vegetable Quick Bread, at local fairs to encourage the use of simply delicious summer produce. The top winners at each local fair have the opportunity to enter their winning entries in the Pennsylvania State Farm Show in January.

At Lebanon County Area Fair on Monday, three winners were selected. Sorry we can't reprint their recipes until after state competition. But here is the first-place recipe from 2002's competition.

PINA COLADA ZUCCHINI BREAD

3 cups grated raw zucchini
3 cups sugar
1½ cups oil
4 eggs
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoon salt
½ cup nuts
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon coconut flavoring
1 teaspoon rum flavoring

Mix the first four ingredients and beat two minutes. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda. Mix and add the remaining ingredients. Bake in greased and floured loaf pans for 55 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 3 loaves.

Bakers Tackle Contest Challenges

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Every year renown cooks stir up their best cakes, pies, and breads to enter in local fairs. Although a blue ribbon is coveted, their sights are set on the opportunities that blue ribbon listing entitles.

Placing first at a local fair entitles them to enter state competition. A second or third place win won't suffice when it comes to the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie, the Hershey Cocoa Cake, and the Simply Delicious Vegetable Quick Bread contests.

Only blue ribbon winners can advance to state competition. That is why so many contestants in county fair bake-offs live in other areas.

They don't want to take the chance of losing at their own county fair, so they enter multiple fairs.

Except for Nancy Hibshman, Myerstown, who placed first in the quick bread competition, all the top adult winners at the Lebanon Area Fair on Monday were from other counties.

Connie Shuff, York, clinched

Oreo Cookie Cream Cake clinched blue ribbon honors for Belinda Myers, Dallastown.

the blue ribbon title with her Almond Apple Pie. It was the first time that she won at the Lebanon Fair, but certainly not the first time she won at other area fairs. In fact, in 1992 she was the state champion apple pie winner.

Connie's close friend, Belinda Myers, Dallastown, wooed the judges with her Oreo Cookie Cream Cake, which means she will represent Lebanon County at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January. Belinda has been a state winner in cake, pie, and other contests.

But these two contestants don't resort to relying on the merits of past grand champion entries. Every year, they cook up a new recipe.

Now, both Connie and Belinda are qualified for state competition, will they stop entering county fairs this season?

Only in the category in which they qualified. Connie will continue to try for first in cake and bread categories. And Belinda will enter bread and pie contests. It's their goal to be able to compete in every bake-off category at state competition.

What makes a former champion continue to vie for the chance to compete again and again at state competition?

"I love to cook," both Belinda and Connie answered in unison.

To them, improvising and experimenting with recipes in the hopes of claiming the top prize is a challenging goal.

Although they are competitors, the two, like many other contestants become close friends who share common interests. They look forward to meeting each other in state competition.

"It's a much fun to see her win as it is for me to win," Belinda said of her friend.

From left, Alletta Schadler, apple pie contest judge, selects the winners, Connie Shuff, York; Debra Martin, Conestoga, and Dorothy Martin, Conestoga.

For those eager to try the recipes from the Lebanon Fair competition — sorry! The recipes are top secret until the state competition is over. If they win at that point, the recipes will be published.

Placings for each category are as listed:

Hershey Cocoa Cake: 1. Belinda Myers, Dallastown; 2. Diana Zackey, Lebanon; and 3. Jen Wolgemuth, Schaefferstown.

Simple Delicious Vegetable Quick Bread: 1. Nancy Hibshman, Myerstown; 2. Linda Siegel, Lebanon; 3. Danette Ocker, Richland.

QUESTION — A reader wants recipes and ideas for quick summertime cooking.

QUESTION — L. Kauffman would like a pepper recipe to can sweet peppers that taste like the B&G Sandwich Toppers available at supermarket. She knows it has some oregano in it.

ANSWER — Alice Weaver wanted a recipe to make cream cheese. Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for sending directions. She writes: There are several methods and recipes for making cream cheese at home, but this is the best and easiest of them all. It tastes just like cream cheese tasted when it came from the corner deli, before manufacturing companies started wrapping cream cheese in foil bricks.

You need special ingredients not generally available at supermarkets. To acidify the cream, you need a starter culture and to set the curd, some cheese-making rennet. Don't try to use junket tablets for this, the curd will be too soft. The easiest way to attain these ingredients is to order from New England Cheese Making Supply, P.O. Box 85, Ashfield, MA 01330. The company offers culture starters to keep in the freezer and instant starters. Either way works fine. Several rennets are also available such as tablets, liquids, and even vegetarian. Liquid calf rennet is the finest type it seems to keep forever in the refrigerator and, even when old, works perfectly (use extra if really old.)

How To Make Cream Cheese

2 cups whole milk
2 cups heavy cream
1 ounce mesophillic starter or ⅛ packet instant starter
1 drop rennet
Butter muslin (N.E. Cheese Making Supply also has this)

Put the milk and cream in a plastic, stainless, or crockery bowl. Add the starter and stir well. Add the drop of rennet and stir about 30 seconds. Cover with lid or plastic wrap. Set the bowl where it will stay at about 70 degrees overnight. If your house is cool, put it in the oven with the light on and this should do the trick.

The next day, the mixture should be set and jiggle like milk Jell-O. Carefully pour into a butter-muslin lined colander and allow to drain in the sink. As the whey drains off, you may want to turn the cheese onto fresh muslin so that the top drains faster. I usually flip the mass over onto a new section of muslin and reposition it in the colander. You will know when it is time to flip the cheese because the muslin will easily pull away from the firming curd mass.

Allow the cheese to drain until it is fairly firm and no longer dripping, this will take a few hours, be patient. Turn it into a bowl and add salt to taste. It is ready to eat or mix with other tasty ingredients.

One thing to remember when working with cheese is that it is alive. You want to be scrupulous about cleanliness, but careful not to kill the friendly bacteria that do their magic with the milk. Never get bleach near your cultures or milk, but you can use bleach to clean surfaces and utensils. Just be very careful about rinsing it all off with fresh water. Don't use wooden spoons, they harbor wild bacteria. Stainless steel or plastic for stirring is best and stainless steel or crockery bowls. Never use aluminum or anything with cracks.

Making cheese is fun and people have been making cheese for thousands of years. Maintain reasonable cleanliness and your cheese will come out fine.

ANSWER — A York County reader asked for a recipe for a cake called either creamsicle or dreamsicle cake. Thanks to Pat Elligson for sending one.

Creamsicle Cake

1 package orange cake mix
1 small package orange Jell-O
1 small instant vanilla pudding
1¼ cups milk
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Mix Jell-O with 1 cup boiling water. Add ½ cup cold water. Set aside to cool. Mix cake according to directions. Bake in 9x13-inch pan. Remove cake from oven when done. Using a large meat fork, poke holes down into cake. Gently pour the Jell-O mixture into the cake holes, giving it time to sink in.

Mix pudding mix and milk together until thickened. Spread on top of cooled cake. Place in refrigerator for at least 30 minutes.

Spread whipped cream over top of cake. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

ANSWER — A Lycoming reader requested a recipe to make chocolate chip mint cheesecake and other recipes for unusual cheesecake. Thanks to Brenda Martin, Reinholds, for sending the following "yummy" recipe.

Chocolate Mint Cheesecake

½ cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
6-ounce chocolate crumb pie crust
11-ounces cream cheese
½ teaspoon mint extract
Several drops green food coloring
1 egg

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In small saucepan, melt chips with ⅓ cup sweetened condensed milk. Stir in vanilla. Spread on pie crust. With mixer, beat cream cheese until it is fluffy. Gradually add remaining milk, mint, and food coloring. Add egg. Beat on low just until ingredients are combined.

Place pie crust on baking sheet. Place on oven rack, carefully pour mint mixture over chocolate layer in pie crust.

Bake 25 minutes until center is nearly set. Cool. Chill at least three hours.

ANSWER Patty Schuler, Richland, N.J., wanted to know how to remove raspberry seeds to make seedless raspberry jam. Thanks to several readers for sending advice: Shirley Orfanella, Quarryville, writes that when seeds are removed from raspberries it is no longer jam but jelly. She makes black raspberry jelly by following the directions on the Sure Jell package. After it cooks, pour about 2 cups at a time into a fine sieve. Stir and stir and push against the sides of the sieve with a wide wooden spoon. It's time consuming, but no seeds and people tell her that her jelly is the best.

Anna Martin, Denver, who makes absolutely wonderful raspberry jelly, writes that she follows the directions for jellies printed inside boxes of Ball Fruit Pectin Jell or Sure Jell Fruit Pectin. Crush berries one layer at a time and simmer 5 minutes. Pour prepared raspberries into 3 layers of damp cheesecloth or a jelly bag. Let it drip into a bowl until dripping stops. Press gently occasionally until dripping stops. Follows directions in recipe box.

Deb Patterson, Millersville, uses a Victorio strainer with a berry screen. She writes that the jam is clear and tastes wonderful. The handcranked Victorio strainers are available where canning supplies are sold.

Lee Laverty crushes the berries and drains and squeezes them through a cloth or cloth bag. She sends her recipe.

Fresh Red Raspberry Jam

3 cups finely mashed or sieved red raspberries
6 cups sugar
1 package powdered fruit pectin
1 cup water

Combine berries and sugar. Let stand at room temperature about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Boil pectin and water rapidly for one minute, stirring. Remove from heat. Add fruit and stir about two minutes. Pour into containers; cover. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours. If jam does not set, refrigerate until it does. Store in freezer. Makes about 8-9 half pints.

ANSWER — Anna Bryan, Oxford, N.J., wanted a recipe for chicken meatballs like those served at Chinese restaurants. Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for sending a recipe.

Chicken Meatballs

1 pound fresh ground chicken
1 egg, lightly beaten
¾ cup crushed butter-flavored crackers
½ cup shredded mozzarella cheese
¼ cup chopped onion
½ teaspoon ground ginger
6 tablespoons Dijon mustard, divided
1¼ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon onion powder

In a bowl, combine chicken, egg, cracker crumbs, cheese, onion, ginger and 3 tablespoons mustard. Form into 30 balls, 1 inch in diameter. Place in a greased 9x13x2-inch baking dish. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until juices run clear. In a saucepan, combine pineapple juice, green pepper, honey, cornstarch, and onion powder; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook and stir 2 minutes more; reduce heat. Stir in remaining mustard until smooth. Brush meatballs with about ¼ cup sauce and return to the oven for 10 minutes. Serve remaining sauce as a dip for meatballs. Yield: 2½ dozen.

Shop-2-Cook Provides Meat Recipes

NICKI LEFEVER
Special Correspondent

BUFFALO, N.Y.—According to the National Pork Board, grocery shoppers spend most of their time in the meat section.

Frank and Jan Beurskens, of Buffalo N.Y., make that stay longer with Shop-to-cook, a terminal in the meat department where shoppers can scan beef, chicken, veal, pork, turkey or seafood and print free relevant recipes.

"This is a big help for shoppers who don't know how to cook different cuts of meat to try something new," Jan Beurskens said.

The number of recipes varies on the demand of the product, from 70 beef recipes to three for tripe and veal.

The Beurskens own AgriBiz & Associates Inc., Buffalo, N.Y., and developed the kiosk to benefit shoppers, retailers and manufacturers Mrs. Beurskens said.

She said meat manufacturers benefit from this system because it moves more meat off the shelf and records how shoppers are using their product.

"The system records what people are buying and we pass that information on to the manufacturer," she said.

Shop-to-Cook has been in the pilot phase since last fall with help from several sponsors. Four systems are in place at Tops Markets in Western New York.

"We are due to roll out 20 more in the area in the next few months and hopefully go nationwide in the future," she said.

Buerskens said it has been received well in the trial run.

"It wasn't marketed by the chain, and each week 350 recipes were printed out at each store pretty consistently," she said.

The Buerskens hope to get support from meat boards and councils to get the kiosk to more stores.

"We see this as a great way to connect manufacturers to the shoppers," Mrs. Buerskens said. "It has been really rewarding to watch shoppers of all ages, men as well as women, be interested."

Ida's Notebook

August already!

It is the month of many birthdays in our family. Most of the grandchildren have birthdays this month.

One of them spent his second birthday with us and is now ready to start college in Virginia. Another grandson has just returned from his second trip to Germany. While two sisters in Atlanta have birthdays just a week apart. One of the younger ones will be eight years old at the end of the month.

Lately, I've noticed that people are making their own cards. Considering the price of store bought ones, I can understand why they would. We have received some very pretty ones and they are special because they were made especially for us. Some folks can use their computers to help them make these special cards while others use photographs to enhance their cards.

We have so many wild animals in our immediate area. One night they ate all of the apricots on one tree and left the ground covered with seeds. Every night a raccoon comes into our garage through the cat door and empties the food in the cat dish. Groundhogs visit my garden regularly and eat my vegetables. Something even dug up the lima bean seeds and ate them. I enjoy hearing the many birds that we have but they too emptied our cherry tree of fruit.

I've been told that the answer to the problem is to grow enough for yourself and for the animals too. But, that is easier said then done as we simply have too many animals. Each year the opossums eat my tomatoes and we have to set a box trap.

BugMobile, More Fascinate Fairgoers

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Animals, food, bugs, tractors and much more captured the attention of kids at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds, July 26-Aug. 2.

"Let Yourself Go" was the theme of the 47th annual fair. It's the place to be to see agriculture at its best. From the 4-H and FFA members exhibiting animals to fuzzy little alpacas, garden-grown specimens of flowers, vegetables and fruits, and much more attracts people of all ages.

Special events included tractor and truck pulls, demolition derby, All the Kings Horses, Huffy the Clown, Wild World of Animals, musical entertainment.

The BugMobile, a talking ladybeetle, fascinated visitors. A Volkswagon car painted like a ladybug actually answers questions about bugs much more. The purpose is to teach people about their environment and how to protect it.

On Monday, Hunter Rhodes, and Jesse and Jacob Kline were trying to figure out if there was a person hidden somewhere in the car. Their squeals of delight and at-length conversation with the car reveals the BugMobile's appeal. the Pennsylvania Intergrated Pest Management Program presents the talking ladybug as an educational attraction with live insect displays to handle, free education materials, activities, games, and fun giveaways.

Here is a poem written about the ladybug.

A LadyBug Poem

Although to you I'm just a bug,
I won't get in your way.
And if I could just talk to you.
Here's what I'd like to say.
I'd like to tell our guests here,
I visit fall and spring,
In the state of Pennsylvania,
I like to spread my wing.
I don't know where I come from,
I don't know where I'll go,
I am sort of a mystery,
To everyone I know.
Most say I am beneficial
I eat aphids with such glee
Farmers and gardeners think I'm special
Since I do my work for free.
I visit all the finest homes,
Playing hide and seek, I'm very clean and harmless,
In fact I am quite meek.
I promise not to hurt you.
I don't mean to offend. So put away your fears now,
I want to be your friend.
And soon I will be leaving,
As quickly as I came.
Returning once again next year,
To play this little game.

In the heat of summer, shorts, t-shirts and bathing suits are the most popular attire to stay cool. The clothes you wore last summer may not be as loose fitting as you remembered so as a first step you may have already begun or would like to begin, your own dieting program for weight loss.

You might also be looking at various programs that could help you reach your goal. When considering the numerous options available be sure to look at a safe plan to weight loss.

There are several points to think about when designing your own program: Remember that losing weight does not happen overnight. You need to be patient, because it may take several months to actually see the "fruits of your labor." A rule of thumb for safe weight loss is that you should lose no more than one to two pounds per week.

A sound weight-loss program should include exercise as a key component of that program. Exercise not only burns calories, but it helps to tone flabby muscles and increase muscle mass. You will actually look thinner and feel better with regular exercise.

You will also need to make sure that you are eating a variety of foods from each of the food groups. Your body needs more than 50 nutrients each day to maintain itself. There is no "perfect" food available to give us all of those nutrients in one sitting. Each food provides a variety of nutrients, so we need to include different foods for a balanced diet.

Remember that severely limiting your daily intake of calories is not a good idea. Once you lose the weight and begin to "eat normally" again, you may gain back all of the weight that was lost.

Let's take a look at a few of the more popular dieting programs, their strengths and their weaknesses. This will give you an idea of what to think about when planning your weight loss program:

• Fasting Diet They often claim to detoxify the body and lead to quick weight loss and are followed by very low-calorie diets. Fasting diets can lead to ketosis, kidney stones, nausea, fatigue, elevated uric acid levels and can be life threatening. Weight loss will be due to water and muscle loss, followed by fat loss. When eating is resumed, weight gained is primarily fat.

• Diet Pills Capsules are taken once or twice a day and follows a diet plan that comes with the capsules. Pills suppress appetite, but weight loss occurs from following the diet plan — not by taking the pills. Most brands have a diet plan enclosed. Many of these are good diets. Weight loss comes from following the diet, not from taking the pills. Diet pills many produce side effects that have not been adequately studied.

Diets that offer nutritional prepackaged foods with vitamin and mineral supplements often have medical professionals on staff. Reliance on this type of program can be very costly.

There are also numerous group weight-loss programs such as the Penn State New Weigh of Life program. This program stresses nutritional balance, behavior modification, and the importance of exercise to maintain ideal weight.

Heat gently for 20 minutes. Cool slightly and strain.

Shirley writes that her husband's chronic back problem was aggravated during haymaking. She rubbed aloe vera leaves on his back, and it helped instantly. He was amazed. It was a sloppy procedure, so they'd like to make the salve if possible.

Casey Launches Audit Of Pa. Mammography Facilities

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — More than 12,000 Pennsylvania women will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year, and more than 2,000 women in the Commonwealth will die from it. According to the Pennsylvania Department of Health, breast cancer is the second leading cause of female cancer deaths in the state.

Mammograms, or x-rays of the breast, are the best screening tool women have to detect breast cancer early. However, successful early detection depends upon high quality mammography services.

That is why Pennsylvania Auditor General Robert P. Casey, Jr., recently launched a performance audit of the Commonwealth's oversight of mammography facilities. Casey's audit will provide an independent assessment of the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP)'s annual inspection process based on the standards set forth in the federal Mammography Quality Assurance Act. It will also examine the enforcement of federal mammography standards by the Commonwealth.

Casey said his audit was prompted by a "New York Times" story, which revealed that in each of the previous five years, more than 40 percent of the nation's mammography clinics were cited for violating federal rules enacted in 1992 to ensure accurate mammography screening.

Youths Exhibit Quality At Lebanon Goat Show

NICKI LEFEVER
Special Correspondent

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.)— Bethany Moy's first year at the Lebanon Area Fair's goat show turned out to be better than she expected.

"I didn't expect to win," the 12-year-old said.

But she did. Bethany's 2-year-old doe Isabel placed over eight other Pygmys to take grand champion Pygmy goat at the 2003 Pygmy goat show July 28, at the 47th annual Lebanon Area Fair.

"I feel so honored," she said.

Bethany has five cats, one dog, a pony and two goats. She calls where she lives a farmette, because her family built a little barn on their land in Lebanon. Bethany said she and her sister Olivia wanted to come to the goat show because it was a learning experience.

"When we heard about the goat show, we thought that was something we could do," she said. "It helps us take better care of our goats when we get them ready for the show."

Olivia's goat, Ella Rose, got hurt and couldn't come to the fair, but a sign on her pen said she missed everyone, wished them luck and couldn't wait until next year.

Judge Linda Spahr said she was very pleased with the high quality of the goats, even though there wasn't a lot of competition, only 13 showmen and 25 goats in three categories, dairy, Pygmy and fiber.

Judge Spahr was particularly impressed with Olivia Richards' 2-month-old Cashmere, Trisuli.

"He doesn't have a lot, but when you get under there, he has quality hair," Spahr said.

Bethany proudly displayed her Lebanon County 4-H Goat Club T-shirt as she watched the rest of her first show. She couldn't keep the smile off her face.

"I had a lot of fun," she said.

Wenger's Crossbred Hog Impresses Judge

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — With 105 entries, Judge David Holloway had a tough job Monday at Lebanon Area Fair.

"I take this job seriously. I pick out hogs that put a lot of things together. The ones I'd want," said Holloway, a York County breeder.

The soundest package with a long body, a natural frame, thickness, firm muscle, and leanness went to exhibitor Ben Wenger, 16.

Wenger said the grand champion placing of his spotted crossbreed hog took him by surprise. "This is the first time, I ever won. My family brings quite a few head every year. We always try, but we never placed that well before. I wasn't thinking about winning — just doing my job."

In fact, he and his three siblings were disappointed earlier that morning when one of their hogs was disqualified because of lameness.

"We thought that was our best hog," he said.

Now the siblings and their parents Lee and Beverly Wenger, Annville, will never know how the disqualified hog would have placed. But, Wenger has this word of advice to other exhibitors: "Never give up. Don't think about winning, and maybe you will."

Taking the grand champion reserve placing in the market division was another crossbreed hog. Susan Leed, Myerstown, has been showing for 10 years. This was also her first year in the winner's circle for hogs. Her family primarily raises sheep, and have often achieved grand champion status in sheep competition.

Holloway praised the exhibitors for their pride, hard work, effort, and diligence in raising and exhibition.

Results in breeding stock competition, included the following:

- Duroc grand champion was a heavyweight shown by Joshua Seaman, and the reserve was a lightweight shown by Ryan Fisher.
- In Hampshire competition, the grand champion was shown by Michelle Campbell, and the reserve by Cole Seaman.
- Poland China grand champion was owned by Christopher Seaman, and the reserve by Nathan Shanaman.
- Yorkshire breed champion was owned by Michelle Campbell, and the reserve by H. Tanner Dresch.

Here is a partial listing of the market hog results:

Dennis Balbac and his wife Monica Kline were looking for a hobby and an investment after his retirement as a life-line helicopter pilot at Hershey Medical Center. Peruvian Suri Alpaca's Alice and her baby Bianca, pictured above, won.

The gentle animals from South America are rare in the U.S. and are known for their fine and luxurious natural fiber. Only 124 farms in Pennsylvania own Alpacas and the most expensive one to date sold at an auction in Johnstown for $250,000.

Balbac came upon the animal at a seminar and made the leap. He now has a heard of seven, soon to be nine, on his farm, a Suri Farm, ltd., Myerstown, Lebanon Co., and hopes to increase to 30. He said the animals are calm and peaceful and not destructive to his land.

Balbac is so excited about his animals that he has been raising for the past nine months, he wants people to know about his livestock investment. He is hosting an Alpaca Open House, Saturday August 9, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at his farm located at 1864 Mount Zion Rd., Myerstown. For more information or directions call Dennis or Monica at (717) 933-9922 or (717) 991-9420.

★ ★ New Products Now Available ★ ★

~ • The Advantages of the Fiberglass Wheels are: ~

Fiberglass Wheels

- Very Low Maintenance Costs These wheels are built to last a lifetime and beyond without ever having to replace any parts on the wheels under normal use. The only maintenance required will be tightening up or replacing the tire or rubber
- High Performance Regardless of the Elements Wheels stay tight even in hot, dry conditions – No more loose rattling spokes – ever!
- Rugged Heavy Duty Design It takes a major accident or impact to break or twist these wheels.
- Hard Durable Surface Resists scuffs and scratches, paint job stays shinier.
- Easier Cleaning Spokes have all rounded corners, no tight spots for dirt to get into.

~ • The Advantages of the Fiberglass Springs are: ~

Fiberglass Springs

- Lightweight A fiberglass spring weighs 22 lbs. less than a steel spring; 44 lbs. less weight on the carriage.
- Durable One Piece Design No bolts to give out or wear.
- Better Performance With Heavy Loads The more weight, the better the ride, will not go flat and bottom out.
- No Rusting Ever Paint will not blister or peel off. No rust stains running out between the plys, providing a nicer appearance and much easier cleaning.
- A Lifetime Guarantee If these springs ever break under normal use, we will replace them free of charge.
- Stabilizer Kits – Now Available For a smoother ride and less bounce

ASA Voting Delegates Set Policy Direction

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — From soybean production areas across the country, soybean farmers assembled in Charlotte, N.C., to review and revise the policy direction of the American Soybean Association (ASA).

The meeting was conducted in conjunction with the eighth annual Commodity Classic Convention and Trade Show. Board members, voting delegates, and other ASA members participated in this annual process that will guide the ASA for the next year as it pursues initiatives to improve U.S. soybean farmer profitability.

Among the noteworthy changes and additions were refinements to advance the use of biodiesel and to accentuate the importance of a viable domestic livestock industry, including competitive transportation for the delivery of feedstocks to supply deficit areas.

Delegates approved specific negotiating objectives for the Doha WTO Round, and expressed support for food aid programs with an emphasis on the role of soy in confronting HIV/AIDS.

Delegates asserted their support for biotechnology, but urged remedies to protect U.S. farmers from illegally planted biotech seedstock by farmers in foreign countries.

Biodiesel

ASA supports the development of state and federal legislation that promotes biodiesel and biodiesel blends, and strongly urges that all diesel fuel used in the United States be a biodiesel fuel or a biodiesel blend. Biodiesel is a clean-burning alternative to petroleum-based diesel fuel that is produced primarily from soybean oil.

To increase utilization of biodiesel, ASA is calling for biodiesel tax incentives, a national energy policy that promotes renewable domestic resources, minimum renewable fuel content requirements that include biodiesel blends, and programs that promote biodiesel blends of 2 percent or higher. ASA is calling for energy security measures that reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil sources, increase use of biodiesel as a fuel additive to improve the lubricity of low sulfur diesel fuel for on and off road applications including railroads.

ASA encourages fuel stations across the nation to start carrying biodiesel at the pumps, and encourages all fuel suppliers to handle biodiesel to enhance our nation's energy security, improve our air quality and reduce our dependence on foreign oil.

ASA will also urge elimination of the 50 percent cap on biodiesel usage for compliance in the federal Energy Policy Act (EPACT), and supports banking and trading of biodiesel credits in the EPACT program.

Domestic Livestock Industry

ASA Voting Delegates expressed strong support for the U.S. domestic livestock industry as a value-added soybean market. Swine and poultry feed accounts for 75 percent of all domestic U.S. soybean meal consumption, which represents about 37 percent of total U.S. soybean production.

As swine and poultry producers face a variety of challenges to their industry, soybean producers must appreciate how important these customers are to their own profitability. ASA encourages states to use sound science where an environmental review process is used to evaluate livestock facilities, and that petitioners reside within a reasonable proximity of any questioned site.

Also, the federal government should immediately and actively encourage segments of rail, grain, and agriculture to improve the infrastructure in transporting agriculture commodities to supply deficit areas of the United States, particularly to the Southeastern states. ASA supports legislative efforts to promote increased competition in the rail industry to foster better service and lower rates, including amendment of th Jones Act so as to allow the shipment of U.S. agricultural commodities on the lowest cost vessels from one U.S. port to another. ASA supports an exemption from the Jones Act for the shipment of bulk agricultural commodities.

WTO Objectives

ASA urges the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the U.S. Trade Representative and any other relevant agency to be aggressive in investigations, and pursuing where necessary complaints against countries whose tariff structure and/or non-tariff barriers may violate said countries WTO (World Trade Organization) obligations.

ASA supports substantial improvements in market access for soybeans and soybean products, including livestock products, as the top priority of the Doha Development Round negotiating under the WTO.

ASA believes that the extent to which a new WTO agreement reduces trade-distorting domestic support, it must reflect the extent to which market access is increased in developing and developed countries through reductions in tariffs and other measures. ASA strongly supports maintaining the exemption for minimal and non-product specific support from reductions required in trade-distorting domestic programs.

ASA strongly opposes any reduction commitments or caps on domestic support policies that do not, or only minimally, distort production or trade. Additionally, ASA strongly opposes exempting government supported domestic transportation and marketing subsidy programs in developing countries from disciplines under the WTO.

ASA also strongly opposes including in the WTO agreement the precautionary principle or other non-trade concerns that are not based on sound science that could be used as a justification for restricting market access.

Food Aid in Confronting AIDS

ASA voting delegates expressed strong support for U.S. food aid programs and urged greater emphasis on the role proper nutrition and protein play in combating HIV/AIDS (human immunodeficiency virus/acquired immunodeficiency syndrome). An estimated 36.1 million people worldwide have HIV/AIDS. Some African countries have infection rates of 25 to 35 percent of their populations.

Biotechnology

ASA strongly supports biotechnology and believes the development of biotechnology-enhanced crop varieties and products will benefit farmers, consumers and the environment. Biotechnology is a key tool that will help farmers meet growing world food, health and energy needs.

Cloister Visitors Learn Early Bookmaking Was Done By Hand

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — For years, if you wanted to read the good words, putting out books was an arduous and involved process.

But even before there were the "good words," the material to make paper had to be literally "beaten to a pulp."

Often it was the linen material that early colonists could dredge up, rip to shreds, and beat up into little fibers to make paper.

The books we take for granted every time we shop at a Borders or Barnes and Noble bookstore today — printing tasks that have gone computerized and completely automated — were actually all done by hand hundreds of years ago.

And the most popular place to do it, at least up until the Revolutionary War, was the Ephrata Cloister.

Demonstrations of early book arts at the Cloister recently focused on one of the nation's earliest publishing centers. The demonstrations, "Paper, Ink, Quill, and Press," brought a few hundred visitors to the Cloister to look at what book publishing was like 250 years ago.

At that time, according to Toni Collins, historic site administrator, "Ephrata's members were in the midst of producing the largest book published in the American colonies, and everyone plays some role in the work." The 1,500-page book, "Martyrs Mirror," tells the story of early Christian and Anabaptist martyrs from the time of Christ until 1660.

A complete book, with a layer of protective acetate at the Ephrata Cloister site, is bound with handmade linen paper and sewn together and wrapped with handmade tanned leather. The text was printed in 1748. At the Cloister display was a "common press," made of wood, with a double-pull platen, used to produce copies of the book.

Demonstrator Dave Martin, a retired Garden Spot High School industrial arts teacher, also showed an early all-iron press, a Ramage Press from Philadelphia dating back to the 1830s. He printed up a replica copy of a letter written by a soldier in the Revolutionary War. The letter expressed the soldier's appreciation for medical care he received at the Cloister Hospital in 1777.

The press also printed sale bills, deed certificates, baptismal documents, and other records.

Ephrata Cloister, founded in 1732, was a protestant monastic community of celibate Brothers and Sisters supported by a married congregation who lived nearby. Members, mostly German immigrants, sought spiritual goals rather than earthly rewards. They chose Saturday as their main day of worship.

Members were housed in German-style buildings. Their celibate life included strict discipline and self-denial. They were known around the world for their self-composed music, Germanic calligraphy called Frakturschriften (meaning "broken letter"), and printing.

Demonstrator David Martin noted that during the years before the Revolutionary War, "the printing was done on a 'need-to-be' basis in the colonies," he said. Though the "Martyrs Mirror" was printed, the pages were stored and bound only when copies were ordered.

It was probably "the largest book printed in Colonial America," said Martin. The edition was translated from the Dutch to German also at the Cloister.

Dave Martin assembles type onto a printing stick.

After the ink dried, the papers were bunched in "signatures" and tied together with linen by hand. The ties were wrapped through a piece of wood covered by tanned leather, all produced at the Cloister.

Early traditions of printing mass-produced text began with the Gutenberg Bible, fashioned using methods borrowed from wine presses. The wine press led to some of the (as then modern-day) use of letter press. Individual pieces of type, or lettering, were put together by hand on a "printing stick."

The printing trade craftsman during the period leading up to and beyond the Revolutionary War in the late 18th century could set the type "pretty fast" by hand, noted Martin. They memorized the position of each individual letter in the case, "like keys on a typewriter," he said. "It was a skill you learned like any skill, such as typing."

The letters were mounted by wooden wedges and locked in a case. Paper was placed on a platen and, by hand, pressed into the case. Out came the printed page, which was literally hung up to dry.

"Two guys could do about 2-3 copies (of the page) a minute," said Martin. The oil-based ink, made along with the paper at the Cloister, could also be printed on the back of the pages.

The paper was made up of pulped, pressed, and dried linen fiber. The ink was made up of linseed oil and lamp black. Flaxseed was pressed to yield the oil. The lamp black was the black soot from lamps.

From the printing industry emerged individuals who created type down through the years, borrowing styles. One such "font" maker was William Caslon, whose font, Caslon, remains a legitimate type from England.

The basic procedures used to set type were handed down from those years until a few decades ago, when "computers changed the printing industry," noted Martin. It's the same product, though this time it "just became mechanized."

These days, however, some hand-setting of type continues. All of the Queen of England's speeches are still set letterpress by hand.

Early book art also examined how paper was produced. Richard Aldorasi, of Philadelphia Handmade Paper Company, Morton, provided a mobile, hands-on living history of papermaking during Colonial times.

Aldorasi noted that paper was made by cloth for hundreds of years, from 105 until 1850. Settlers would collect rags, tear and beat them to a pulp, and, using water, remold the fibers into paper sheets.

The paper was 100 percent

Old Center Tables, Plain Or Fancy, Still Popular

Center tables were something special in the mid-19th century. Not only were they the status symbols of their day, but examples of the finest artistry of the furniture maker.

Thses days when they come to auction or antique shops they can command more than $15,000.

If it can be attributed to a known American maker, the price can be even more.

The more elaborate the table top, the higher the price, even if the 19th century maker is unknown. At past auctions a center table with an inlaid parquetry design sold for $14,000.

An American C. 1815, unknown maker center table, elaborately embellished with parcel gilt on mahogany had an auction estimate of $9,000. Even a reveneered, mid-Victorian rosewood and boxwood inlaid centertop table sold at auction for $7,000.

The earliest known version of the center table was made in Rome in the 17th century. It had a marble top.

By the 17th century, center tables with marble tops, and of a baroque design, were being used in English castles. The perfect piece of furniture for the massive middle entry room.

From the 17th century on, center tables changed their styles to coincide with the prevailing fashions of the time. English furniture designer, Thomas Sheraton adapted it as a pedestal table, adorning the top with inlays. By the first quarter of the 19th century it became popular in European countries. There, in the neo-classical style, it often combined exotic woods with a marble top and ormolu mounts. Sometimes the usual pedestal was replaced with four legs mounted on a platform base. During this period both American and French styles created it in the "Empire" style that was in fashion.

Many American center tables of the 1820s and 1830's were enriched with heavily carved pedestals and animal feet. A magnificent example made by Anthony Quervelle combined an intarsia marble top with ormolu and gilt trim. It was in the Regency style of mahogany.

There were lesser known American cabinetmakers of the time who worked in styles peculiar to their regions, which were much simpler in design. Rather than using gilt and marble inlays they relied on the beauty of the wood and quality carving.

One, Thomas Asten, working out of New York state used mahogany with beautiful mahogany veneers and carving . His tables are notable for the heavily carved pineapple pedestals and hairy leg and animal paw feet. Other times he used beautiful dark marble for the tops. The rococo revival in 1850's and 1860's brought an extravagant version of the center table carved in rosewood or laminated wood by John Belter. Born in Germany in 1804, Belter was living and working in New York by 1844. The quality of his carving can be seen linen, and multiple sheets were pressed. Each pack would contain exactly 144 sheets, measuring 12 by 12 inches, pressed at a time.

Why the number 144? Aldorasi wasn't certain, though it probably helped knowing how many were in each stack.

The paper was held together by what Aldorasi calls the "Velcro effect." The fiber-to-fiber bond stayed interlocked, and was strong even wet. The fibers, like felt from the screen in a clothes dryer, were pulled from a tray strainer, laid on wool sheets, pressed, and dried.

An individual could press about 3,000 pages a day.

Rags were used to provide the fiber. But making paper was tough during the Revolutionary War, when "people were wearing their rags, not making paper out of them," said Aldorasi.

Any excess paper was used as either to hold gunpowder or in wadding for rifles. "Without a wad of paper, you couldn't fight a war," he said.

Aldorasi told the tale about a wagonload of books headed to Ephrata at one time to be bound. The books were the "Fox's Book of Martyrs," and the martyrs became "twice Martyrs," noted Aldorasi, because the rebels needed paper, a real expensive commodity. They stole the load.

Aldorasi, dressed in common 18th century garb, demonstrated the mobile paper press unit with the basics — a vat, a screen, and a press.

Other demonstrations at the Cloister included the art of Fraktur. Demonstrator Claressa Resh noted how much time was spent in replicating, by hand, certain items.

The members of the Cloister wrote with quill pens, using mostly goose quill, though they could "write with any kind of feather," she said. The quills were kept sharpened by a pen knife.

Ink came primarily from substance collected out of oak galls, a growth on oak leaves. The material inside the gall was scraped out (sometimes the whole gall was just ground up) and mixed with a blue powder called copperas. The material was mixed with tannic acid and gum arabic, a thickening agent. This was all mixed with vinegar and boiled.

Joanne Stephan, a professional calligrapher, demonstrated handwriting by quill. Those who attended could hand-letter, copying from style sheets, or just creating their own styles on paper.

Demonstrator Michael Showalter, museum educator, showed how early bookbinding was done. Pages were bound with linen thread by signature (a group of pages). Cloister members, working by hand, bound their own school notebooks, covering them with wallpaper.

One book on hand provided detail on the sewn signatures on the spine. That volume was the "Marburger Song Book," printed in 1781.

Showalter noted that the Cloister Museum plans several demonstrations, part of a series the second Sunday of every month through October. That includes work from Cloister members from 300 years at the site.

For more information, contact Showalter at (717) 733-6600. The Cloister is located just west of downtown Ephrata on Rt. 322 near the intersection of Rt. 272. Admission is $7 for adults, $6.50 for senior citizens, and $5 for youth ages 6-17.

in the use of floral bouquets, lacy laminated and pierced grapes, leaves and flowers.

He favored marble for the tops. The legs were based on the 18th century French rococo style and the use of carved, naturalistic curving ornament.

After the Civil War the center table lost it's important position.

it was replaced by the small parlor table. However, it made a spectacular comeback in the 1870s during the Renaissance revival. The look was different. It featured floral marquetry tops, combined with gilt. Berkey and Gay, a Grand Rapids, Michigan cabinet-making Company began making Renaissance revival furniture in great quantities, in the 1870s. Their tops used multi-color marquetry.

CLUES: In the 1960s the center table came to a rather sad end. Many of the plain oak, mahogany, and walnut pieces were cut down and used as coffee tables.

There have been reproductions made over the years by various Grand Rapids furniture companies. Sears catalog versions from the turn-of-the-19th century still turn up, at affordable prices at garage and estate sales. More Than 1,200 Teens Participate In FFA Activities Week At Penn State

MILLIE BUNTING
Market Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — More than 1200 blue jacketed teens representing 112 FFA chapters from across the state converged on the Penn State main campus in June to participate in the Annual FFA Activities Week.

Each one went prepared to show the skills they acquired as members of FFA by competing in 28 Career Development Events (CDE) as individuals and in teams to take home the gold for their chapter. In addition to gold, silver and bronze plaques, monetary awards were presented to the first place individuals and teams.

The first place winning teams in the state CDE competitions won trips to compete at the National FFA Convention in Lousiville, Ky., October 29-November 1. The second place teams will compete at the Eastern States Exhibition (the Big E) September 12 and 13 in West Springfield Mass.

As a result of their members achievements in the CDE's, 14 FFA chapters qualified for a 2003 Gold Chapter Award and were recommended to attend the national convention.

In alphabetical order, the 2003 FFA Gold Chapters are: Big Spring, Cumberland Co.; Brothers Valley, Somerset Co.; Cedar Crest, Lebanon Co.; Cloister, Ephrata High School, Lancaster Co.; Concococheague, James Buchanan High School, Franklin Co.; Cumberland Valley, Cumberland Co.; Danville, Montour Co.; Greenwood, Perry Co.; Hans Herr, Lancaster Mennonite High School, Lancaster Co.; Manor, Penn Manor High School, Lancaster Co.; Middleburg. Snyder Co.; Northern Lebanon, Lebanon Co.; Spud Growers, Coudersport Area High School, Potter Co.; and Twin Valley, Berks Co.

The FFA Activities Week is not just about competing in the CDEs. In addition to meeting other FFAers from throughout Pennsylvania, other activities included hearing motivational speeches by a world renown speaker, Dr. Rick Rigsby, and a national FFA officer; the selection of the new state officers; the FFA talent show; meeting supporters and sponsors of FFA programs; and touring the Penn State campus.

Each of the events was conducted by one or two agricultural educators who organized and managed the competitions, with the help of countless individuals involved with the state's FFA program.

The list of the CDE's and their chairpersons follow:

Agribusiness Management, Michael Shultz and Paul Heasley; Agricultural Mechanics, Lem Metzler and Dominic Centoze; Agricultural Salesmanship, Deb Seibert; Agri Issues Forum, Jason Reifsnyder; Agronomy, Scott Howell; Aquatic Resources, Gretchen Dingman and Bruce Stajnrajh; Chapter Procedure, Harold Berkheiser.

Also: Dairy Cattle Judging, Thomas Ritchey; Dairy Cattle Showmanship, Doug Brown; Dairy Foods Ernest Orr; , Environmental and Natural Resources, Ron Fredrick; Floriculture, Roy Campbell; Forestry, James Harrold; Horse Evaluation and Selection, Mark and Heather Anderson; Interview, Krista Pontius; Land Use and Management, Martin Heyler.

Also: Livestock Judging, Curtis Hughes and Mark McCullough; Meats Evaluation and Technology, Carole Fay; Nursery/Landscape, Timothy Mauk; Poultry Judging, Bob Lauffer and Bill Erikson; Public Speaking-Conservation, James Howe; Public Speaking - Creed, Earl Brown; Public Speaking - Extemporaneous, Howard Leslie.

Also: Public Speaking - FFA, James Mackereth; Public Speaking - Junior, Guy Naugle; Small Gasoline Engines, Clair Wilwer and Carey Kalupson; Tractor Driving, Wayne Irish; and State Wildlife, Ron Weaner.

Other activities for which awards were presented were the Agriscience Fair and Agriscience Student Recognition chaired by Steve Miller; Chapter Scrapbook, chairperson Gretchen Overst; and the Talent Show chaired by Cynthia Shaffer.

Jodi Brown supervised the chapter awards and Mike Brammer, state FFA executive manager, worked with the chapter delegates and the selection of the new state officers.

The annual activities week is a cooperative effort of the Pennsylvania State FFA Association, Penn State's Department of Agricultural and Extension Education and the Pennsylvania Department of Education.

Keenan SYSTEM

Better Farming - Better Feed

WANT TO REDUCE COW SORTING IN A SINGLE FEEDING

Start using the Keenan System on your farm.
The Keenan System combines on-farm TMR guidance built around the mixer wagon's unique tumbling action to precisely cut and mix hay, straw or baleage to the proper length (2"-4") – without destroying ingredients. It produces and even, fluffy ration that preserves the feed structure, discouraging sorting and optimizing rumen function for healthier cows. Healthier cows are productive cows. Productive cows are profitable cows.

Get the REEL Advantage

A Faster, More Thorough Mix

❖ BUSINESS NEWS ❖

Dairyland Seed Provides Entry Forms For World's Forage Analysis Superbowl

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dairyland Seed is encouraging forage producers to participate in the 20th Annual World Forage Analysis Superbowl, conducted in conjunction with World Dairy Expo this fall. Entry forms are available free of charge from Dairyland Seed.

Growers entering the contest have the opportunity for their forage to be analyzed for feeding references using NIR equipment, and the chance to win valuable prizes such as alfalfa seed, inoculants, nutritional supplements, or even a season's use of forage equipment. There is also a first time entrant equipment prize to encourage producers who have not previously entered the contest to get involved.

Forage producers may enter in either of two divisions: the Dairy Division (open to forage growers with dairy production information) for hay, haylage, and corn silage or the Commercial Division (open to all growers) for hay and baleage.

All winning samples will be displayed in the Arena Building during The World Dairy Expo. Producers may enter as many entries as desired within each category by the Sept. 5 deadline.

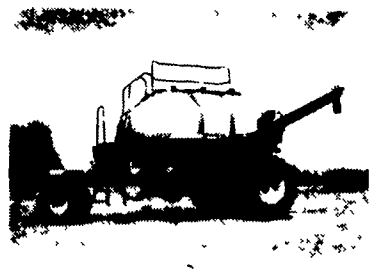
Case IH Expands ADX Air System Line

RACINE Wis. — The proven Case IH ADX Series air system line just got bigger with the addition of two new models — the ADX3380 and ADX3430. Both offer three integrated, polyethylene tanks in tow-between and tow-behind configurations with 380- and 430-bushel capacities, respectively.

"Three tanks offer more options to apply seed, fertilizer, or granular products in a single pass for maximum seeding efficiency," said Kevin Dow, marketing manager for Case IH planting and seeding products. "And with the largest capacity tow-between configuration on the market at 430 bushels, producers can stay in the field longer without refilling."

For additional capacity, high-volume, 10-inch auger allows the operator to fill and unload the tanks quickly.

Both the ADX3380 and ADX3430 air systems allow the operator to single-, double-, or triple-shoot a wide variety of products, along with the ability to switch quickly between the options.



The Case IH ADX3430 air system offers the largest tow-between configuration on the market, as well as a tow-behind version. The new model uses three integrated polyethylene tanks of 186, 102, and 142 bushels, respectively, to provide a total 430-bushel capacity.

"A farmer could blend multiple products in all the tanks for maximum capacity, or triple-shoot seed and two types of granular fertilizer, or he could use one tank for fertilizer and two for different kinds of seed to change crops," Dow said. "Essentially, the combinations are endless."

ADX Series air systems offer a choice between mechanical or variable rate meter drive. The mechanical meter drive uses a slide adjustment for infinite rate setting, while the optional variable-rate metering system allows the operator to change the rate on the go from the cab. It adapts easily for GPS precision farming applications, blending seed and fertilizer on the go. All changes are monitored with the AgriCheck™ monitor. The multiline, alphanumeric display provides in-cab readout of fan RPM, acreage, bin status, and product delivery rates for each meter.

Free Guide Explains New Federal Rules For Livestock, Poultry Farms

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A free guide from Penn State Cooperative Extension will help farmers and citizens understand which livestock and poultry operations are likely to be affected by new water-quality regulations from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for concentrated animal feeding operations, or CAFOs.

"New Federal CAFO Rules: Which Pennsylvania Livestock and Poultry Operations Will Be Affected?" was written by Alyssa Dodd, extension associate in agricultural environmental policy; Charles Abdalla, associate professor of agricultural and environmental economics; Les Lanyon, professor of soil science and management; and Robert Graves, professor of agricultural engineering.

The first in a series of policy updates, the guide provides timely analysis and information on evolving state nutrient and water policy programs.

"This is the first major change in the EPA regulations on large-scale animal agriculture or concentrated animal feeding operations since the mid-1970s," Dodd explains. "The regulations will financially impact Pennsylvania livestock and poultry producers required to comply and will provide environmental and health benefits for citizens of the commonwealth."

The fact sheet explains why EPA revised the federal CAFO rules, highlights the major changes to the rules, outlines the process for incorporating the new rules into the current state CAFO program, and provides guidance to Pennsylvania producers to help them determine if they will need a permit and how they may be affected.

To request a copy of "New Federal CAFO Rules: Which Pennsylvania Livestock and Poultry Operations Will Be Affected?" call (814) 865-6713 or write to the Publications Distribution Center, The Pennsylvania State University, 112 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, Pa. 16802.

The publication also is available on the Web at http://agenvpolicy.aers.psu.edu.

Administer Vaccinations In New Injection Site Zone

LINCOLN, Neb. — Beef producers are being asked to administer injections into a tightened injection site zone in an animal's neck. This new injection site zone is a hand's width in front of the shoulder and several inches shorter than the previous zone.

The step to tighten the old injection site zone is a Beef Quality Assurance issue, as the beef industry wants to reduce the number of greenish lesions showing up in beef cases where retailers use modified-atmosphere packaging.

"We're finding a 15 percent to 20 percent incidence of greenish lesions in chuck steaks where modified-atmosphere packaging is being used," states Dee Griffin, D.V.M., University of Nebraska.

"These greenish lesions are not likely new. We just didn't see them before modified-atmosphere packaging (a combination of 80 percent oxygen and 20 percent carbon dioxide used to prolong bloom) came to the retailer case. Also coming into play is the practice of retailers now using part of the chuck for steaks.

"Put these two factors together and we have a problem. This 15-20 percent incidence of greenish lesions is a concern and must be reduced."

Dr. Griffin stresses that current research indicates that no particular product or formulation is responsible for the greenish lesions. Calling the greenish lesions "an industry challenge," Dr. Griffin says that the percentage of lesions can be reduced when producers administer vaccinations in the tightened injection site zone.

"Our work shows that one chuck muscle plays a major role in the problem," Dr. Griffin states. "By tightening the injection site zone, this particular muscle is avoided, and incidence of lesions can be significantly reduced.

"The greenish lesions are a management problem. Although there are various unknowns, we do know that giving products SubQ (subcutaneously) when possible, tightening the old injection site zone and administering IM (intramuscular) injections at least a hand's width ahead of the shoulder will be a big step in addressing the problem."

To keep administration of products at least three inches apart, producers are also asked to administer vaccinations in both sides of an animal's neck.

Silage Spreaders with a Heritage of Quality

Lancaster Level-Flo has been the leader in non-motorized silage spreaders for more than 25 years. Each spreader is specifically designed to meet the needs of the individual operator.

Choose the spreader that best matches the equipment you use to fill your silo.

The Model 1030 Multi-Flo is our standard silage spreader With a 9" gooseneck, it is designed for average capacity blowers and silo sizes

The Model 1200 Multi-Flo has a 12" wide gooseneck Its larger size all but eliminates plugging problems, even when you blow in haylage It is especially helpful in larger silos

The BlueMax is built for those who push high-capacity silo filling equipment to the limit All parts of the BlueMax subject to wear are made 25% heavier - and the stainless steel plate is twice as heavy For strength, there are reinforcements all around Even our well-known non-binding hinge is heavier

What's against soft paint?

In metal roofing and siding some manufacturers use soft pliable paint to prevent cracks. The disadvantage with softer paint is that it scratches so easy. Handling during erection, flying debris during storms, children playing against it, etc. can easily scratch softer paint Scratches on softer paints tend to rust prematurely Everlast heat forms to prevent this Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important.

Northumberland County
This is two farms by same owner which can be sold separately. The one farm of 132 acres is a modern dairy with 153 free stalls and a double 8 DeLaval milking parlor. There is room for expansion This farm is level and very fertile. They have not needed commercial fertilizer for at least 7 years.
The other farm is presently quarter horses, and this land is identical to farm #1. This one has 113 acres with most of it tillable The residence is unique, having been built in 1803, and #1 was built in 1830. Both have 5 bedrooms and modern baths There is a 24' by 80' silo on each, as well as many other pluses. The second would make a beautiful beef farm or make a dairy here as well. Priced separately or both together as a package deal. Call today.

Bradford County, 2 New Opportunities
I have just listed a large modern dairy with lots of ground. There is multiple housing, great location and the possibility for you to buy a turnkey operation also is a plus. Could be rather quick possession or let's do an IRC 1031 Tax Deferred Exchange and keep your investment intact from the sale of your present property.

Opportunity #2: Over 100 acres of good farmland with bordering woodland and wooded patches rich in game and the elevation for building a hunting lodge or permanent residence surrounded by the farmland and neighboring tracts of woodland makes this a great place for retirement also. Big rack deer, bear and lots of turkey abound. Priced right. It should sell quickly. Call me for a private showing.
